DEAD BOSTON MAN BROUGHT TO LIFE

RESTORED BY HEART INJECTION

South End Ex-Taxi Man, 61, Brought Back After Being "Gone" Half-Hour

By BERT FORD.

Boston boasts of a modern Lazarus. He is James Tulley, a former taxi driver, who lodges at No. 474A Columbus avenue.

Tulley, like the biblical character, was snatched from the grave, after he had been pronounced dead by two physicians, one an army surgeon, and had lain cold and lifeless in his landlady's big front parlor more than thirty minutes.

Medical men say his case was "one in a million." The attending physicians would not say whether adrenalin was the fluid used.

JOHNSON FORFEITS STANDING IN N. J.

New York, April 14.—Floyd Johnson, Iowa heavyweight, today decided to forfeit his ring standing in New Jersey by not fulfilling a contract to box Fred Fulton at Jersey City next Monday night rather than go through with the match and have his bout with Jess Willard at the Yankee Stadium on May 12, cancelled by the New York State Athletic Commission.

HOTEL DENOUNCED BY JEWS IS SOLD

The Cliff House, the fashionable Summer hotel on Winthrop, where it was charged last Summer the manager discriminated against Jews, has been sold twice since then. James F. Farmer of Winthrop bought the property from the original owners and today sold it to Mrs. A. C. Gardner of Millinocket, Me. Mrs. Gardner is planning on opening the hotel for the season on Decoration Day. Winthrop Jews held a mass meeting last Summer to protest against discrimination following the report that Mrs. Alfred Kann, a wealthy New York woman, was requested to leave the Cliff House because she was a Jewess.

CALL STRIKE OF 10,000 IN LYNN

Union Leaders Face Contempt ...rges by Action in War of Rival Bodies

At a mass meeting of the Amalgamated Shoe Workers' Union at Lynn today it was voted to call out the entire membership of the union Monday.

This will affect 10,000 workers.

The leaders of the various locals of the union risk almost certain citation for contempt of court if they walk out. They were warned by Judge Waitt two months ago that any deviation from the terms of the agreement meant contempt of court.

It is not a wage fight in any sense, but a war between rival unions. The manufacturers are almost ready to close up shop to avoid the hardships incurred through the labor war.

The sympathy of the manufacturers is with the Amalgamated union, but their agreement is with the old union, known as the United Shoe Workers of America. A peculiar situation exists, inasmuch as the Unites is the radical union and the Amalgamated the conservative union.

The strike of the Amalgamated is aimed at the other union more than at the manufacturers.

In conjunction with the strike the Allied workers voted that salaries paid officials of the union would be suspended after today and remain so until the workers returned to the factories.

This is the first time in Lynn that the paid officials and business agents have been directly and financially hit by a strike order.

Suspension of work by these crafts men will cause the closing of about 75 factories within a week, it was said.

DEPORT BOY AFTER 4 ATTEMPTS TO LAND

Washington, April 14.—A formal order for the deportation of Sammy Goldman, nineteen-year-old Rumanian boy, who failed after four trials to meet the mental requirements of the immigration law, was issued today by the Department of Labor.

It was said at the department that every consideration had been extended the boy, who has been attending school at Syracuse.

ROUSH SIGNS WITH REDS FOR $15,000

Cincinnati, O., April 14.—Edd Roush, star outfielder and batsman of the Cincinnati Nationals, today signed a contract to play with the Reds.

It was said that Roush signed on the club's terms. The contract is for one year at $15,000.

Roush will pay the fine of $90 a day for not reporting at the training camp.

The fine is retroactive to the tenth of March. Roush will lose $1,900 for not signing up before March 10, the date the Reds departed for the Spring training campaign at Orlando, Fla., according to President Herrman of the club.

RED SOX ROUTED BY SNOW STORM

Philadelphia, Pa., April 14.—A snowstorm put a kink in the plans of the touring Red Sox for today. It was snowing hard when the players got up this morning.

The party was scheduled to go to Baltimore to play, but it was learned by phone that snow was falling there, too.

The Baltimore trip then was abandoned, the squad going to New York, from where they will get a train to New Haven tonight.

HORACE FORD IS ON WAY TO BOSTON

By NICK FLATLEY

Washington, D. C., April 14.—Rain pursued the Braves from the and the game here with the Senators had to be called off. It was cold as well as wet and the chances of the concluding pastime of the series tomorrow seemed to be decidedly slim.

The officials of both clubs decided to wait over, however, as the sale for the Sunday game has been unusually large. Bad weather here knocks both outfits out of almost enough money to pay the training expenses.

A squad of the players, mostly young pitchers and subs, will leave for Boston tonight on the Federal. Horace Ford, who has a bad leg, and John Watson, who will be called on in the opening series, went with the early birds.

PRIDE KEEPS LIFER BARR IN PRISON

By HAROLD B. HALL.

Pittsburg, April 14.—Sixty thousand people—members of Scottish organizations throughout the Commonwealth, and others—clamor for the parole of James Barr, serving a life sentence in State prison at Charlestown for a social crime.

Among these 60,000, six persons impose their wills.

A Pittsburg pastor, in a sermon, included Mr. Godbeer in a reference to rattlesnakes.

Another is his brother-in-law, Representative Harry Wheelock, said to be a creature of Godbeer's political sagacity.

A third is Barr's wife, who hadn't seen her husband in twenty years until the parole hearing and who, being divorced from him, has no legal status as a wife, and whose

U. S. TO SELL ALL ITS SHIP LINES

Washington, April 14.—The government will "get out of the shipping business" if it can find purchasers for its ships and lines; if it cannot, then the government will continue the business, economizing as much as possible.

This was decided today at a conference of President Harding, Chairman Lasker and the entire personnel of the shipping board.

Agreement was reached that the board at once proceed to consolidate its foreign trade lines and offer them to private owners at attractive and fair prices, with the proviso that the routes be maintained. If "fair" prices cannot be obtained, there is nothing left for the government to do but to continue government operation under the Jones law.

BRUNETTE CAPTURES GARLAND

Latest Companion of Eccentric Millionaire Does Gardening With Tablespoon

North Carver, April 16.—A bob-haired brunette, begoggled and knickered, has replaced Doris Benson as companion of Charles A. Garland, philosopher and idealist, in his Utopian colony at "April Farm."

She is living in a dilapidated shack and is helping him with the Spring planting.

Charles A. Garland

When asked by a Boston American reporter to name the present residents of "April Farm," young Garland, who gave away an $800,000 legacy, declined to answer.

When the reporter visited the farm, which is nothing more than a clearing in the woods, the hatless brunette was digging holes with a tablespoon to transplant lettuce. In

SIX TECH YOUTHS SMEARED WITH EGGS

Six Technology youths, smeared with eggs hurled at them in a fraternity initiation, walked wearily into Gloucester Police Headquarters.

They had been driven blindfolded from Boston to an Annisquam cottage. After the egg-throwing they were abandoned on Dogtown Common, a marshy waste on the outskirts of Gloucester.

A telephone call to Boston brought the parents of one of the six with an automobile to drive them back to Tech.

$500 REWARD FOR SLAYER OF ATKINS

Concord, N. H., April 14.—The posting of a reward of $500 for the capture of "Lester Reilly," wanted in connection with the murder of Vernon F. Atkins, prominent business man, here on Wednesday night was the only development in the case today.

County Solicitor Herbert W. Raiss, in denying a report that Francis Henning of Charlestown, held by police in connection with the crime, might be released, declared that while he was confident that "Henning has told the truth about the whole affair and although he is not thought to be the man that did the shooting, he was a party to the crime and under the New Hampshire law, becomes a principal.

WOMEN VOTERS BALK AT LEAGUE

Des Moines, Ia., April 14 (By the Associated Press).—Efforts to insert endorsement of the League of Nations in the war prevention resolution of the National League of Women Voters failed today for lack of a second to the motion made by Mrs. Blanche McKelvy of Omaha.

Mrs. McKelvy said she was inspired to offer the substitution by Lord Robert Cecil's address.

BANS CANDY FOR FALSE ALARM BOYS

They must spend the time doing odd jobs and earning $25 each to pay fines in Somerville court.

They cannot borrow the money from their parents. They are Joseph Kelley, nine years old, and William Coughlin of No. 229 Tremont street. They were charged with sounding a false alarm the night of April 5. The sentence was imposed by Judge Stevenant.

The boys were adjudged delinquent. They must pay the fine in also a year.

Two other boys, Paul Andrews, fifteen, and his brother, John, nine, of Beach street, Charlestown, charged with stealing copper and brass from the rear of the Elevated car shops at Sullivan square, were given like sentences. Paul must raise $10 and his brother $4.25 to recompense the Elevated road.

sole ground for keeping Barr in prison is that she is afraid he will disgrace her if he is released.

The other three are children of Mrs. Barr, who support their mother in her stand. One of them, a daughter, is employed in Godbee's office.

The real motives of these six are masked in silence. What is this motive which has caused Godbeer, Wheeler and Barr's own flesh and blood to begrudge the few years of life which still remain in the aged, broken form of the man who has more than expiated his crime—a crime that today frequently brings nothing worse than a small fine?

FUTILE FAMILY PRIDE.

As far as this investigation has been able to establish, nothing more substantial than a futile family pride is keeping Barr today in the depths of despair—despair made blacker by virtue of the fact that the State Board of Parole voted unanimously for parole.

This may account for the straining of the quality of mercy on the part of Mrs. Barr and her children.

But what is the motive of Godbeer, who has gone so far as to suppress news of this case in his newspaper, the Fitchburg Sentinel? Why does he oppose the will of every Scottish organization in the State, of the townspeople of Fitchburg and of public opinion in general?

ONLY SCOT IN PRISON.

Barr is the only Scotsman in the State who is a prisoner at Charlestown. The Scotch societies propose to wipe the slate clean. That is one sentimental interest in the case. But a deeper interest impels these people to fight for the freedom of Barr. It is the interest of Christian mercy, the interest of public policy, the interest of common justice.

There is no question of the innocence or guilt of Barr.

Twenty-three years ago he committed a social offense against a woman. He was drunk when he did it.

PAROLE FAVORED.

The very judge who sentenced Barr, the Scotch societies who are working in defense of Barr allege, is ready to admit today that the expiation is too severe. He is in favor of a parole for the prisoner.

Barr's family consists of a devoted wife and four children. Two years after he was sentenced to prison he co-operated with Mrs. Barr in her effort to get a divorce.

"She was afraid of the cloud on her name," Barr told a reporter of the American. "I urged her to get her divorce in order that her name would be cleared. She wasn't interested in me. But I never dreamed she would stand in the way of my freedom."

FAMILY SKELETON.

But the mother determined to lock the secret of her husband's crime in her breast. It was a forbidden subject at the Barr home. It was the skeleton in the family closet.

Recently Barr's case came up before the State Board of Parole. From the viewpoint of the prison officials it appeared to be only a matter of legal formality. It was expected that Barr would be paroled, that he would be given a chance to come out into the world to see the strange new marvels that had come since he had been locked up—the automobiles, the radio, the aeroplanes, the movies, the hundred and one innovations that had sprung up since he had started his life sentence.

JOBS PROMISED HIM.

It was not a friendless world which awaited to greet Barr if he were released. A score of jobs were promised him. A home was offered to him by one who practically died in the effort to free him—Francis H. Cowin, former Alderman and legislator of Boston.

Up to the day of his death, which occurred on Thursday, Cowin had been active in behalf of Barr. He was in the State House on business in this regard when he collapsed.

To a friend he said when he recovered shortly before he was taken home:

"I wanted Barr to come to live with me when he was released. I have my wife I love, more than anybody else in the world, but I am not afraid to have Barr in my home as my guest. He can have a home with me for the rest of his life."

DIED WORKING FOR BARR.

Cowin neglected his own business, disobeyed the orders of his physicians, met his death in order to work to free Barr. And yet the doors of Barr's cell are still closed by what seems to be nothing more than stubborn family pride.

When the parole hearing came up, the Barrs were championed by their most influential friend, George H. Godbeer, editor and owner of the Fitchburg Sentinel. Isabelle Barr, one of the four children, is employed by Godbeer. Godbeer is probably the most influential man in Fitchburg—a man of political power. The divorced wife and her four children were confident that his influence would keep the case from becoming public. Godbeer engaged to keep news of the hearing from his townsmen in Fitchburg by suppressing it in his paper.

But Godbeer could not keep the matter from coming to the public notice. He might end the discussion by keeping Barr in prison until he died. And this he is trying to do.

Now the townspeople are standing on street corners, discussing the case, wondering if some stronger motive than pride actuates Godbeer, the Miss Barr who works for him, Mrs. Barr and the other Barr children—wondering what prompts the interest of Godbeer—wondering why Godbeer got his own brother-in-law, Representative Harry Wheelock, to oppose Barr's release during the recent hearing of the parole board—wondering why the Rev. George N. Bailey, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church of Fitchburg, in a sermon some time ago, suddenly paused, leveled a trembling finger at Godbeer, who sat in a pew in front, and called him a "rattlesnake."

HAD ROW WITH GODBEER.

The clergyman explained his "rattlesnake" statement as follows: "I don't know as you can exactly say that I called Mr. Godbeer a rattlesnake. He was sitting in the front row and somehow he happened to be in line with my finger when I pointed and made the statement that I had decided that I could not fight a rattlesnake with a feather duster.

"Of course, I had been having some altercation with Mr. Godbeer and he had taken exceptions in his editorial columns to several of my speeches about him. So I announced I would discuss these 'free speeches,' as he called them, from the pulpit and I invited him and other politicians I was fighting to come to hear me. He came. He sat in the front row.

"I spoke very plainly and announced that others besides newspapermen should have the right of free speech in Fitchburg. Then I pointed my finger, which was aimed directly at him, and made my reference to rattlesnakes. Of course, if his conscience told him that I meant him I shall not disabuse him of the thought. If the cap fits Mr. Godbeer's head I certainly intended him to wear it."

PRINTS COWIN'S DEATH.

They are wondering why Godbeer had not printed a single line about the case, despite the fact that everybody in Fitchburg is intensely interested in it, until yesterday, when he printed a story headed:

"FRANK A. COWIN, WHO STARTED MOVEMENT FOR PARDON OF BARR, IS DEAD IN DORCHESTER."

They are wondering whether this obituary of a Boston man is a veiled gloating.

The only public reason which Mrs. Barr and her children advance for keeping Barr in prison is a fear that he may kill his former wife if he is released.

This is regarded as a preposterous stand to take.

Henry A. Higgins, acting chairman of the Parole Board, and deputy commissioner of corrections, commenting on this phase of the case, said:

"Barr's crime was not against his family. If anybody has a right to object his release, it is the State. If he has a right to hold hatred for anybody it is for the parole officers for so long delaying a hearing in this case.

"The question involved is greater than any of the individuals interested. It's as big as the Commonwealth itself. Barr should be free. He was imprisoned at a time when hard sentences were common.

SUFFICIENTLY PUNISHED.

"Barr did not even know his wife and children when he met them at the hearing of the Parole Board. He hadn't seen his wife for twenty years. He hadn't seen his son since he was a few months old, nor his elder daughter since she was seven years old. There is no doubt that Barr has been sufficiently punished."

The very policemen who arrested Barr for his crime in 1900 are in favor of a parole. Charles H. Hurley, then captain of Fitchburg police, now in business in Gardner, and Malachi W. Murphy, then a patrolman, now a Boston & Maine detective, were the officers who arrested Barr.

"Barr ought to be released," Hurley told the American. I knew him for years before that trouble came. He was always a hard-working, conscientious man. He worked hard and behaved himself until he made that break.

"Replaced"

DORIS BENSON.

addition to knickers, she wore golf stockings, heavy boots and an old leather coat.

As the reporter approached her, she cried, "Look out, you're standing on the peas!" The reporter stepped back. "Now you're standing on the rhubarb," she shouted. She was not satisfied until he did a hop-step-and-jump into the middle of the road.

GARLAND DUG WELL.

Three long rows containing lettuce had been planted by the brunette and another woman. The latter is the wife of "Bill," a friend of Garland, who is helping the ex-millionaire to make a big concrete well to store water. "Bill" was at the bottom of the well and "Harley" Garland, as his intimates call him, attired in moth-eaten trousers and a red sweater, was shoveling earth from a point near the edge of the well.

"Are you going into market gardening or is the lettuce merely for home consumption?" the reporter asked the lob-haired farmerette.

"It's for our own use," she replied, "and if there is any surplus I guess we can get rid of it."

At this point an employe told the two women to get under cover, as he was about to blow up some rocks with dynamite. The only other person seen on the "farm" was a neighbor's boy who was carting wood into a small rumble-down building.

Several young peach and apple trees have been planted in the cleared space near the shack in which Garland lives. The shack is in such a condition of decay that a well-bred porker would decline to accept it as a habitation.

IGNORES GOMPERS CHARGE.

Gompers declared that the Garland money is being given by the directors of the fund to pacifist and "red" organizations.

To this charge Garland said: "The fund is entirely in the hands of the directors. I do not care to comment on Mr. Gompers' statement. The money was placed in the hands of the directors for them to do with as they see fit. I do not even suggest or recommend persons or organizations to whom they shall give any of the money."

Garland defended the fund custodians, and added:

"I am in full sympathy with the American Fund for Public Service. I shall be with them to the last ditch. I don't care what Mr. Gompers or any official of the American Federation of Labor has to say about the fund being un-American or revolutionistic in spirit.

"I cannot help what Mr. Gompers has to say about the American Fund for Public Service. What the Service is striving to accomplish is another matter, and I refuse to be swerved from my opinion of the merits of the organization to which I have been a contributor.

"Those who conduct the American Fund for Public Service have their work cut out for them. They know what they are doing, and I am glad they are carrying things on in the way they have been doing since I gave them the $500,000. The Fund will go on with its work."

Garland was asked whether he was a revolutionist of the type implied by Gompers. After a wait of several minutes, Garland asked:

"Exactly what do you mean by a revolutionist?"

The American Fund for Public Service today charged the attack upon it by Gompers was "clearly the result of his disappointment at not receiving money for an enterprise in which he is interested."

PAPER MILL PAY RAISE 8 PER CENT.

New York, April 14.—The wage increase announced by the International Paper Company last Tuesday amounts to approximately 8 per cent. and affects all of the 7,500 employes, it was announced today. The increase becomes effective April 15.

Willimantic, Ct., April 14.—Notices of wage increases effective April 30 were given today at the factories here of the American Thread Company, the Holland Silk Company and the Windham Silk Company. The American Thread Company, with 2,500 employes here, did not state the amount of increase, but said it would be equivalent "to those announced in other textile plants." The two silk mills, employing about 300 persons, gave the increase as 12½ per cent.

MRS. SADIE WIGHT

LOST PENNY MAY COST GIRL'S LIFE

A lost penny, given her by her mother, may cost the life of Marie Tuotolo, aged five, of No. 371 Hanover street. The penny rolled under the stove and, lighting a match, the child went under after it.

When the mother, Mrs. Mary Tuotolo, returned from her Sunday marketing, she found the child enveloped in flames. With her bare hands she smothered the blaze.

DOWNTOWN BLAZE DRIVES OUT 14

Nine girls and five men were driven to the street today when clouds of smoke rolled up through the building at No. 172 Washington street.

Traffic was tied up for more than a half hour and several thousand workers were delayed in reaching their employment.

The fire was in the basement of the Samuel Beckwith hardware store at No. 176 Washington street. The cause is undetermined. The damage is estimated at $500.

New Orleans—David L. Garrett of Monroe, district attorney for the Morehouse Parish district, is en route home with thirty-one bills of information charging a dozen Morehouse Parish citizens with various crimes growing out of the masked band activites there last year.

Tulley looked the picture of health today as he performed the arduous chores of porter at a South Boston warehouse. He is six feet tall and has the stride and erect bearing of a West Pointer.

"And they thought Bright's disease licked me," is one of his favorite sallies.

Mrs. Sadie Wight, Tulley's landlady, is descendent of a Mayflower family and of Governor Winslow. She is a native of Portland and a member of the Women's City Club, Eastern Star and other organizations. Her husband was the late Joseph F. Wight. She has a Summer home in Winthrop. She has lived at No. 474 Columbus avenue thirty years. Mrs. Wight said today:

PLEADED FOR DEATH.

"Mr. Tulley has lodged with me about two years. He was stricken with Bright's disease and finally his condition became so serious he consulted a physician on West Newton street.

"This doctor gave him morphine to dull his pain. His limbs were swollen and he suffered so at times that he pleaded to me to have him put out of his agony. He could not sleep or eat. His nephews were very attentive. They bathed him every day. He is the last surviving uncle.

"Finally Dr. Sullivan took the case. He pronounced it chronic Bright's disease in a most virulent form. Mr. Tulley sank rapidly and passed away. Dr. Sullivan first felt of his pulse and said, 'He has gone.' Then the other physician felt his pulse and pronounced him dead.

"Within about 15 minutes of the hypodermic injection Mr. Tulley opened his eyes and reached his hand out to me. He wanted to know the time. The physicians were astounded as we all were. It was a most astonishing scene. There before our very eyes a man had been brought back from the grave."

NEPHEW'S STORY.

A nephew is a medical man. Requesting that his name be not used, today he confirmed the strange story told by Mrs. Wight and Tulley.

The attending physicians were Dr. Robert Sullivan of No. 4240 Washington street, Roslindale, and Major Kerrigan of the United States Army Medical Corps, who was called in consultation by Dr. Sullivan.

Today the nephew said:

"Mr. Tulley had been annointed for death by a priest from the Church of the Immaculate Conception. We gave him 24 hours longer to live. He lived about 48 hours, but was in a semi-comatose state most of the time.

"My uncle realized he was sinking. His breath finally came in shorter gasps, he waved his hand to us, his eyes closed and he lay still. The two physicians felt of his pulse, one after the other and pronounced him dead. I asked them to give him a heart injection. They did.

OLD INDIAN REMEDY.

"After a while my uncle, who had been dead from all appearances from thirty to forty minutes, opened his eyes, stirred slightly and stretched out his hand. He's back to work today. We all felt it was a most remarkable case but shrank from making it public and wouldn't now if the Boston American had not learned the facts which I confirm.

"I was at the bedside throughout the death scene. We all give much of the credit to Mrs. Wight who couldn't have been more attentive if she had been my uncle's sister, and we feel grateful to her."

Tulley has no recollection of his brief trip through the valley of death. He says he realized his end had come, that he had strength only to make signs with feeble fingers to those grouped about his bed and that he fell into a dreamless sleep.

The first thing he asked for in regaining consciousness was what he considered a cup of tea, which he handled heartily with his landlady, Mrs. Sadie Wight, who had nursed him like a mother aided by Tulley's nephews and other relatives and who pulled him through a precarious convalescence by applying an old Indian remedy known to her family and keeping Tulley to a strict diet, devoid of meat and consisting chiefly of bran food.

Mr. Harding, Some Advice
A Better Water
Mysterious Matter
What the Farmer Got

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1923, Star Co.

PRESIDENT HARDING: The newspapers say that you have sent for George H. Harvey to give you advice for 1924. Here is some advice, you did not send for it, but it's as good as any Harvey will give you:

Don't give the Democrats in 1924 a chance to say—"Well, Harding has switched around to us, doubling on his 1920 tracks, and he is running on a weak-kneed League of Nations platform."

IN 1924 everybody will know that the "World Court" is to the League of Nations what plain water is to H2O.

There is an American feeling in this country, Mr. Harding. The safe margin of seven million votes that elected you have not switched around to the League of Nations, and they won't be at all interested in what Harvey may advise.

YOU HAVE been deceived by propaganda and by appeals to which your kind heart has made you pay too much attention—appeals from kind hearted women, hating war, and unable to see that any League of Nations compromise means more war. You have also been deceived by propaganda from Wall Street—cleverly arranged to hide its origin. They want the League of Nations down there. You know it. They wanted it in 1920. There would be money in it for them, but not for the taxpayers.

The ablest man in one of the two biggest Wall Street firms said: "While we hate Borah, we are for him here, because we consider him our best man as regards getting the country into the league." The gentleman's name will be supplied if you want it.

IF YOU and McAdoo, or Ralston, or some other Democrat divide between you in 1924 the voters that think European nations or a European court should run this country, you will leave some fine pickings for Henry Ford. He's for peace, but you won't find him asking Europe or any European court to help him run his business if he's elected. He wouldn't even ask for Wall Street's help when he was badly in need of $60,000,000.

FORD RUNNING against a League of Nations Democrat and a "World Court" Republican would make the Democrat and Republican worry on this platform:

High wages.
Better railroads, cheaper freight rates.

And American affairs run by the American Congress and the American courts.

HARVEY WON'T give you advice of this kind, Mr President, but his won't be better. Run as a League of Nations man however disguised under "World Court" camouflage, and you will be badly beaten. That's not merely the opinion of this friendly writer, who ground out much of your advertising copy in the last campaign. It's the opinion of one of the men who was nearest to you and most important to you in 1920.

SIR J. J. THOMSON, able British scientist, tells the Philadelphia Franklin Institute that by a new arrangement of hydrogen and oxygen atoms, it may be possible in the laboratory to construct a new and far superior kind of water. That water would, of course, have two atoms of hydrogen to one of oxygen, but the atoms would be differently arranged, like distributing the plums and raisins differently in a bun, so to speak.

THE NEW would compare with the old water somewhat as a diamond compares with ordinary coal. It might have valuable properties as a conductor of electricity. The average man sighs and says, "Go ahead and switch around the atoms if you want to. This world is getting too complicated for me."

WHAT DO we know about matter, its mysterious construction, the electrons, units of electrical energy to which

VICTIM OF HER RUM-CRAZED HUSBAND

MRS. OSCAR CARLSON

Worcester wife who was driven nuts from her home by husband and iron stove lid with which he fractured the skull of his four-year-old daughter after stabbing her. The child is dying.

Worcester, April 14.—Mrs. Oscar Carlson of Nyland street is in a serious condition at the home of a neighbor, and her daughter, four years old, is dying at Worcester Hospital, victims of the husband and father, a wire mill employe, who returned home crazed with poison liquor. Following his outrages, he committed suicide.

He entered his home and, without warning, stabbed the child and then fractured her skull with the iron centre lid of a stove. He then turned on his wife, who had interfered in his attack on the child, and tearing her clothing from her, drove her nude from the house.

When police arrived they found Carlson hanging from a rope, his throat cut. Either the hanging or the slashing would have been sufficient to prove fatal.

Mrs. Carlson is able to assign no reason for her husband's actions.

"I wish I could see him to forgive him," she said. "He didn't know what he was doing. He was a good husband when he was sober.

Police are conducting a rigid investigation in an effort to trace the source of the poison liquor that crazed Carlson.

MATHILDE AND OSER UNITED AMONG POOR

London, April 14. (By the Associated Press).—It was confirmed today at the registry office of Lewisham, an outer suburb of London, that Miss Mathilde McCormick, daughter of Harold F. McCormick, was married there to Max Oser on Thursday.

London, April 14.—Despite their romantic courtship which aroused the jaded interests of two continents the marriage of pretty eighteen-year-old Mathilde McCormick, grand-daughter of John D. Rockefeller, and Major Oser, middle-aged Swiss riding master, was as prosaic as the nuptials of any two persons in the most humble ranks of life, it became known today.

The excusive announcement of the marriage circulated by International News Service Friday was confirmed in every detail.

Mathilde and the Major were married at the Registry in Lewisham, a suburb southeast of London, near Greenwich, inhabited by persons of the middle class, such as shop keepers and well-to-do artisans.

The witnesses were E. L. Martin and F. W. Cowhan.

When they arrived at the registry office both Mathilde and Major Oser were apparently nervous, but they smiled happily at each other.

The office is plain and barely furnished. The couple sat and chatted for considerable time before their turn came. When their names were called Oser gallantly assisted Mathilde before the registrar. Both answered the questions in a firm voice.

Outside the streets were bustling with suburban traffic and there was a loud clatter from the near-by docks, where sievedores were at work. Rain fell steadily all the time. It was a unique setting for the marriage of a girl who is related to two of the richest families in the world.

Two registrars, Frank Belcham and W. R. Owen, performed the ceremony.

For the first time Major Oser's correct age was officially revealed. The license said he was forty-five. Mathilde celebrated her eighteenth birthday one week ago today.

The Major gave his full name as William Max Oser, bachelor and soldier by profession. Mathilde, who has been living most of the Winter in a little flat at Kensington, said she was a spinster of independent means.

For nearly a month before the ceremony Oser had been living in Hither Green to establish a legal residence in the district covered by the Lewisham Registry Office.

The couple left London as quietly as they were married. Some believe they have gone to Scotland. Others think they are on their way to Switzerland.

THRILLING RESCUES AT HOTEL FIRE

Lowell, April 14.—Eighty persons were carried down ladders today when a general alarm fire swept the St. Charles Hotel and Phillips House on Middlesex street.

A volunteer helper, Gilbert Frisette, fell from a ladder and injured his ankle. He was taken to the hospital.

An aged man, whose name is not known to the police, started down a rope fire escape—a rope attached to a hook inside his room—and when half way down cried for help. Firemen rescued him.

The hotel and lodging house adjoin. Both are four-story brick structures. The fire started in the Ernest Chambers restaurant on the first floor of the hotel block.

Stairways were blocked by smoke and fire, making it necessary for the lodgers to flee to fire escapes.

Several became excited and appeared ready to jump to the street. Firemen and volunteer workers shouted warning.

Women and children were carried down the ladders first. Thrice firemen came near slipping as they were carrying their human freight.

Twenty persons were carried from Phillips House. Sixty were rescued from the hotel. Most everybody lost everything.

BOOTH TARKINGTON'S DAUGHTER IS DEAD

Miss Laurer Tarkington, seventeen-year-old daughter of Booth Tarkington, the novelist and playwright, and of his first wife, now Mrs. Willard Connelly of Cambridge, died today at her father's home in Indianapolis.

STATE ORDERS TOWN TO MAKE 31 ARRESTS

New Orleans, April 14 (By International News Service).—Morehouse Parish has been ordered by the State to make its own arrests in the masked mob outrages that terrorized the Parish, resulting in the murder of two men, the kidnaping and whipping of others. District Attorney Jarrett of Morehouse Parish departed today with bill of information of thirty-one citizens of the Parish. The charges run from conspiracy and murder. Warrants for arrests will be turned over to Sheriff Fred Carpenter for service.

MOTORCYCLIST HURT IN CRASH WITH AUTO

Gazar Vartanian was seriously hurt today, when a motorcycle he was riding in was in rear-end collision with an automobile of the Pennsylvania Rubber Company in the alley back of No. 661 Beacon street, Back Bay. Vartanian was riding back of the auto, which stalled, then backed, the police reported. The cyclist, injured internally and bruised on the legs, was sent to City Hospital. He lives at No. 23 Dartmouth street.

'L' CARMEN LIKELY TO GET RAISE

Employes of the Boston Elevated Railway Company have good prospect of an increase in wages when their contract year expires July 1, according to gossip today in financial circles.

The Boston News Bureau, which is in close touch with affairs of this corporation, announced today that the Elevated "will undoubtedly agree to an increase in wages for the year to begin July 1 next."

On account of the contract year existing then any proposition from either side for a change in wages or working conditions must be outlined sixty days in advance of the new contract year, or by May 1.

General Manager Dana of the Elevated says the road has not been served with any notice that employes are seeking increase.

DROWNS BABE, TRIES TO KILL HERSELF

Elizabeth, N. J., April 14. (International News Service).—Mrs. Minnie Cohen, twenty-three years old, is in the hospital in a critical condition today, after drowning her baby and then attempting to kill herself. She keeps crying she is tired of living. She tenderly laid her six-months-old daughter in a tub of water, then turned around and stabbed herself twice in the neck with a butcher knife.

IRISH PLOT TO ATTACK LONDON

Documents Found in Raid Are Said to Reveal Plan to Kill Official

Dublin, April 14 (By Associated Press).—Austin Stack, former Republican Cabinet member, has been captured at Clonmel by Free State forces, it was officially stated this afternoon.

The ex-minister was hiding in a ditch in the mountains near Clonmel, in the district where Liam Lynch was captured recently, the advices state.

London, April 14 (By Associated Press).—Documents said to reveal plots involving the destruction of life and property in London are reported to have come into possession of Scotland Yard as the result of a raid on the residences or resorts of Irish men or women suspected of being Republican supporters.

Among the plans said to have been revealed were plots to attack London's lighting and power sources—the underground power stations: efforts to release Irish prisoners from London prisons, and projected attempts on the lives of high police officials.

It is stated that the plots had huge ramifications in Great Britain, and particularly in London, and had reached such a stage that a delay of a week by the police might have resulted in the scheme being put into operation.

Among the plans was one for attacking police officers in their houses, and a prominent former Cabinet Minister is declared to have been marked for attack.

There was a well-organized scheme, it is asserted, to raid a certain London prison, either for the purpose of damaging it or for rescuing Irishmen detained there. Irish prisoners also were to be rescued from prison vans while being conveyed through London.

Preparations had been made for some sort of an attack on the old Bailey Court, and the underground power stations had all been marked for destruction.

De Valera Eludes Free State Forces

London, April 14.—Eamon De Valera has apparently eluded the Free State troops under General Prout who have been searching for him in the Tipperary mountain areas, says a Dublin dispatch to the Central News today.

The whole district was thoroughly combed by thousands of soldiers aided by airplane observers. Several prisoners were taken. General Prout expressed the opinion that the region had been cleared of irregulars.

A Glasgow dispatch to the Daily Herald says that Countess Markievicz, the Irish Republican leader, is in that city.

Free State army headquarters at Dublin says it is unable to confirm or deny the report of the arrest of Countess Markievicz.

Raid "London Battalion" of Irish Republicans

London, April 14 (By International News Service).—More than 150 policemen conducted a series of extensive raids in various parts of London today searching the homes of suspected members of the "London battalion" of the Irish Republican army.

A number of persons were detained for investigation, but it is understood none of them will be deported.

Police activity was aroused by a recent threatening letter received at the London office of the Freeman's Journal of Dublin and signed "Headquarters of London Battalion of the Irish Republican Army."

PROTESTS LOVE FOR ALLEGED ABDUCTOR

MARY ABIZARD AND PHILIP ABDENOUR

WOMAN BETRAYS ELOPERS; CASE IS PUT OFF

If the mysterious woman who supplied the police with the information which led to the capture of eighteen-year-old Mary Abizaid and her alleged abductor, Philip Abdenour, will call at the office of the girl's father, Louis G. Abizaid, glove manufacturer, at No. 7 Edinboro street, she will receive the promised reward of $100.

In court today the girl's father presented a certificate from a physician stating she was too ill to appear, and the cases of the couple were continued until next Friday.

After the court proceedings, Abdenour, whose bail of $1000 still stands, went to City Hall Annex and took out a marriage license to wed Mary. The couple filed intentions last Monday.

The anonymous woman who furnished the police with the clew, on the other hand, does not desire the reward and wishes that her identity be kept secret, according to Captain Clinton E. Bowley of the West Roxbury police.

Following the mysterious tip, the girl's father, accompanied by police from East Dedham street and West Roxbury stations, went to the designated address, No. 4 Shaw street, Roxbury, and there found the girl and Abdenour in a room on the second floor.

Abizaid declared that immediately after the girl reached home, she collapsed. Throughout the entire ordeal, Abizaid said, the girl appeared dazed and showed evidence of having been drugged.

"He hypnotized my daughter," the manufacturer declared. "Ever since I employed him as a strikebreaker in my plant four years ago, he seems to have exercised a powerful influence over the girl. She did not know what she was doing, as she is but a child and he is nearly twice her age."

DEMAND BOOKS OF EXCHANGE IN SUGAR PROBE

New York, April 14.—All members of the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange today received a form letter from the United States attorney's office asking for a submission of a record of all their customers and their firms' transactions in raw and refined sugar from January 1 until April 1. Efforts of the government to trace the cause of prevailing high sugar prices through the Department of Justice investigation were indicated today to be moving toward early developments.

It has been the general assumption that an investigation was being directed toward ascertaining whether price increases have resulted from collusion or conspiracy in violation of the law.

Although President Harding was represented as absolutely convinced that the tariff duties on sugar have been in no wise responsible for the steady advance in prices, he is still awaiting the preliminary report on that phase of the situation.

21 NEW INDICTMENTS IN COAL MINE WAR

Charleston, W. Va., April 14.—While defendants and attorneys in the numerous criminal cases resulting from a march of some 5,000 miners against Logan and Mingo counties in the Summer of 1921, were preparing today to go to Charleston for resumption next week, of hearings in these cases, the situation took a new turn today with the indictment of the miners' chief counsel, Harold W. Houston.

The returning of the indictment was announced with twenty others against men alleged to have taken part in the march.

Drastic Move Decided Upon by France and Belgium to Pay Invasion Expenses

Berlin, April 14 (By International News Service).—A French journalist, M. Labouret, of l'Intransigeant of Paris, has been fined 100,000 marks in the German Supreme Court at Leipsig for passport irregularities. The original charge was espionage.

Paris, April 14 (By the Associated Press).—The French and Belgian governments decided today at the conference of their ministers here to reimburse themselves for the Ruhr occupation expenses out of merchandise and money seized from the Germans.

The two Allies again emphasized their determination to evacuate the Ruhr only as Germany paid.

WILL SELL GOODS.

Any balance left after the military and engineering expenses are paid will be turned into the reparation fund for the benefit of all the Allies.

The merchandise seized will, first of all, be applied on orders already placed with Germany under the reparations schedule for German payment in kind, the French and the Belgians filling their own orders by compulsion if necessary.

Once these individual reparation orders are filled, the seized merchandise will be sold under joint Franco-Belgian control, it was agreed, and the proceeds will be used, together with confiscated money, cash obtained from fines and other receipts, to pay the expenses of the occupying forces as prior claim, only the surplus going to the Reparation Commission.

PRIVATE OFFERS TO WED GIRL-MOTHER

New York, April 14.—"For the honor of the army and the protection of a soldier's child I came here to marry Sophie Breitbach and be a father to her baby—whether she is my former sweetheart or not," said Private Hayden Looney, 18th Infantry, U. S. A. when he appeared at Ellis Island. Sophie Breitbach, a German girl and her baby, are being held there today for deportation because unwed mothers with a baby are not admitted.

"I think the United States Army is no place for a man who would wrong a woman," Private Looney declared. "Whether this girl is my girl or some other soldier's girl, she has had a rough deal. I am willing to marry her."

400 PERISH IN WIND STORM OFF JAP COAST

Tokio, April 14.—Upwards of four hundred fishermen are believed to have been drowned and thirty bodies have already been recovered off the coast of southern Korea and Japan following one of the most severe wind storms in years. Many ships were driven ashore. Six American destroyers expected at Yokohama are delayed by the storm.

JUANITA PAYS $2,500 TO FIND "WATER CURE" IS FAILURE

DOPE CRAVING LINGERS, HAS LONGING FOR HOME

Copyright By New York American
By JUANITA HANSEN.

The doctor had pronounced his sentence.

One month in which to live!

I had been given my sentence, but I would prove that it would never be carried out. Live only another month? Well, I would show them all!

I had three months still in which to finish my contract. I must finish the production.

To do this would take two months. The doctor was very kind to me and I might even say patient. For I really became unreasonable. He knew that it was an impossibility for me to attempt a cure under the conditions that confronted me.

Every day I seemed to be growing weaker. The change was now very noticeable. My cheeks were very sunken and I had lost a great deal more weight. I weighed probably 105 pounds.

Then the Cure Again!

I never will forget the day I finished the production—three weeks before my contract expired with this Eastern firm. The very day I finished my last scene, all trunks had been packed, my apartment I had given up, and with my doctor, secretary and a friend, I left for up-State.

Once more I attempted a cure!

We drove for probably two hours in a limousine. This was in December, 1920. Our destination was a sanitarium located on the hills overlooking the Hudson.

We were received by Dr. X, rather an elderly man, who seemed very kind but very stern. I afterwards found out that this doctor's word was law. He was the captain, the sole commanding officer of this sanitarium.

I must explain here that one month previous to this I had voluntarily given up cocaine.

My doctor had urged me so many times and begged me so many times to give up cocaine. He tried to convince me it was possible to give up this particular narcotic if I was strong enough in will and desire. Believe me, he did not convince me in a day.

Not a Necessity

Cocaine is not a necessity. Morphine becomes part of you. No person with any intelligence on the subject of narcotics will ever advise the use of morphine or heroin instantaneously. But cocaine is entirely different. With determination and strong will power, cocaine can be given up very easily.

Narcotics had taken such a strong hold on me that it seemed useless for me to try and give it up. So when my doctor attempted for the ninth time to persuade me to give up cocaine, I guess he was too surprised when I said suddenly: "What makes you believe it is possible for me to give up cocaine? My repeated efforts have failed. It is impossible!"

His answer was quite convincing:

"Young lady, if you sincerely wish to break away from the destructive power of cocaine, I will show you how. It all rests with you."

He outlined the following plan: I was to make up my mind completely that I was through with cocaine—get that into my consciousness—firmly believe it. I was to give him, that very night, every grain of cocaine I had.

If I would agree to do this, he would be within my call the entire next day. I was to keep up with my morphine, however. He did not urge me to attempt giving that up while working.

I agreed to this plan. We made a bargain. The next morning, I got out of bed, knowing that I had no cocaine and remembering my promise of the night before, I said to myself:

"Juanita, you haven't any cocaine. You are through with it!"

The plan I had entered into was a success.

I dressed myself for the first time in months without the aid of cocaine! I went to the studio! I worked all day.

I can't say I had no desire for it, but I worked so hard I didn't have much time to think it over. That night I reported to the doctor. He was delighted.

This was the end of cocaine, for the time being. For three weeks I continued to work, work, work hard, and I never touched cocaine!

The doctor was right in this instance!

The cure: Reduction.

There is no successful reduction cure.

I do not know of one successful cure accomplished by this plan. I do say that you can reduce considerably the amount of narcotics you may be accustomed to taking, but you cannot take the drug entirely away by the reduction process.

However, it cost me $2,500 to find this out!

The doctor I had brought with me from New York talked with the doctor in charge of the sanitarium for perhaps an hour. He then came upstairs to see me. I had brought the doctor with me from New York because I had confidence in him. He had agreed to stay with me at least three or four days, until I really was well on the way to my hoped-for cure.

Cure Cost $2,500

This hope was blasted. After his talk with the doctor down stairs, he came up to tell me that he had decided to go back to New York, that Dr. X would have sole charge. When I asked why, he answered:

"I feel Dr. X is as capable as I in handling your case."

To my mind neither of them knew very much about narcotic cases. Yet the "cure" was to cost $2,500.

I remained three weeks in this sanitarium. The first week I was in bed all the time. The second week I was able to sit up, perhaps an hour a day. The last week, I rapidly regained my strength and was allowed to take short walks. During the six weeks at the sanitarium, I asked Dr. X what sort of a cure they intended to give me. But that was his secret.

I was given many pills and medicine, which was supposed to be part of the cure. I think most of the medicine consisted of bromides, sugar-coated pills. Dr. X promised me, however, I would be taking pure water within three weeks in my hypodermic.

One day he sent a note up to my room, stating:

"You have been taking aqua pura for seventy-two hours."

Tricked by Water

The previous seventy-two hours I had been receiving my hypodermics every few hours on scheduled time. In fact, if my nurse was a little negligent, I reminded her of the fact that it was time to have a shot. Now, it can be readily seen, that one's state of mind has a great deal to do with this.

Imagine, asking for my hypodermics of aqua pura!

Aqua pura for seventy-two hours, and I thought I was getting narcotics.

True, I had been weaned from narcotics for seventy-two hours. But merely taking the narcotic away does not mean that a cure had been effected.

Now I will tell you why this "cure" was a failure. The pains in my stomach kept up constantly. The pains in my limbs were so intense that all the massaging that two nurses could give me did not relieve. Of course, my appetite was much better, but I rested very poorly by night.

I had gained quite a little in weight, and my general appearance was considerably better.

I left the sanitarium free from narcotics but not free from the terrible curse that narcotic addiction of two years had stamped upon my whole physical organism.

I was not cured.

I came back to New York. I made final arrangements to leave for California; but, before doing so, I went out looking for a "connection." With the assistance of the "pretender's health," I would be able to stand the long journey ahead of me.

I was going home. That was all I could think of—home and mother.

No matter in what condition, nor how, cure or no cure, I was going home. If narcotics could help me get there, then I would use narcotics.

The next article, No. 11, of Miss Juanita Hansen's series dealing with her addiction and cure of the drug habit will appear exclusively in Monday's editions of the Boston American. Back copies containing these articles may be obtained at No. 89 Summer street.

WARRENITE-BITULITHIC
THE BEST BY EVERY TEST
PAVEMENTS

GIVES REASON FOR GROWING USE OF 'WARREN-BITULITHIC'

The number of awards recently made by the City of Boston and by other municipalities throughout New England for pavements and roads of "Warrenite-Bitulithic" construction, have aroused a great deal of interest as to what this type of road is and in what respects it is different from, and better than, the old familiar type of macadam road.

In order to obtain a comprehensive and authorative exposition of this pavement, which seems destined to replace all of the other types, George C. Warren, chairman of the executive committee of Warren Brothers Company, was requested to prepare a statement covering the history and advantages as well as the methods of laying this pavement. His statement follows:

"When in 1876 the practical development of asphalt from Trinidad began, the then Warren brothers were in the forefront, both in the development at Trinidad and its refinement and conversion into asphalt cement at the Long Island City refinery of the Warren Chemical and Manufacturing Company. At this period the Warrens were the first to improve the "gravel" and roofs by using asphaltic instead of coal tar cement.

"Immediately after the laying of the first asphaltic pavement on Pennsylvania avenue, Washington, D. C., in 1876, the Warren family was interested in the organization of the first asphalt company in the United States of which the late Herbert M. Warren, father of the present writer, was treasurer.

"Beginning with the year 1877 the second generation of Warrens in the bituminous industry, one after another as they completed their school education, took up the business of their fathers and became active in the field work throughout the United States and Canada in the early development of the asphalt pavement.

FRED WARREN'S INVENTION.

"In the year 1899, Frederick John Warren dropped his western paving activity and returned to the boyhood home of Boston for technical research into uses of bituminous materials and aggregate. Within two years he had developed and patented what has revolutionized the asphaltic pavement and road construction industry. His basic invention, briefly stated, consisted of the use of crushed stone or gravel in place of the sand previously used in mixed bituminous pavement surfaces.

"With this invention, the seven sons of the late Herbert M. Warren all returned to Boston and organized the present Warren Brothers Company. Other men practically experienced in different branches of the paving industry were soon added to the organization and now fill high official positions in the organization and the sons and nephews of its organization are now engaged in the present organization, which is active, not only in every State of the United States and every province of Canada, but in foreign fields.

"The great improvement of this construction which began in sample areas in Pawtucket, R. I., New Bedford, Mass., and Cambridge, Mass., in 1901 was quickly recognized by engineers, officials and the public generally. The new construction fully met the requisition of its origination in the matter of strength, stability, and non-porosity, thus eliminating the essential troubles of prior constructions, to wit: tendency to buddy shift under traffic; to absorb water and break up because of insufficient stability.

"Weakness of 1901 invention: The producers, however, were quick to see some unanticipated weaknesses, which they strove to improve along the following general lines:

1. To great rigidity at the immediate surface, so overcome which a slight increase in the "mortar" element (mixture of fine aggregate and asphalt) was used. This largely overcame the difficulty, but partially created new troubles:

(a) Increased tendency to shift under traffic.

(b) Tendency of soft bituminous material being pressed to the surface by traffic and it undesirably sticky in hot weather, "bleeding" as commonly termed.

2. Too rough an immediate surface, with the tendency of breaking and scarring. The effort was made to overcome this by "flushcoating" or painting the compressed surface with pure asphalt covered with sand of crushed screenings called in. This was an improvement on the earliest construction, but the "flush-coat," which was very thin tended to wear off and required renewal every few years.

IMPROVED INVENTION.

"In the year 1910 (nine years after the first introduction of the Warren pavement, commonly known as "Warrenite" and "Bitulithic") Edwin C. Wallace, who had been continuously associated with the Warrens in the various stages of their operations since the year 1893, made an invention, which, as an improvement on the Warren invention of 1901, was destined to and has since proved to be as great an advance in the paving art as Fred Warren's invention of 1901 was an improvement on the then condition of that art.

"Wallace conceived the idea of:

1. Eliminating the surplus mortar of the Warren practice (the recurring element of maximum stability of Warren).

2. After spreading but before compression of the coarse aggregate into a mechanical maximum stability and weight resistance at the bottom upon these pressures are most exacted, spread a comparatively thin course of a finer aggregate mixed very rich in asphalt and compressing the two courses together. This combination provides a pavement wearing surface structure which is:

(a) Most weight resisting at the bottom.
(b) Most wear resisting and water retardant at the top.
(c) The two courses blended into one construction with no line of cleavage—the finer at the top gradually extruding into the coarser in its upper portion which construction is densest at the top.

"The Warrens, appreciating that this new construction was destined to be a practical improvement, acquired the patents, and in the year 1910 constructed the first area for practical use. This was a short section (634 square yards) of one of the thoroughfares of New Bedford, Mass., subjected to the extremely heavy traffic of that bustling cotton mill city. That pavement, now thirteen years old, has not received or required a dollar expense in repairs."

OTHER IMPROVEMENTS.

In the meantime, the Warren road construction development has been along the form of proving beyond peradventure that Warrenite-Bitulithic has economic advantages over many other types of construction, not only on the foundation on which other kinds are laid, but in the following signal important particulars:

1. Conservation of old roads used as either a complete or modicum of foundation for the Warrenite-Bitulithic wearing surface whether those roads are:
(a) Old macadam.
(b) Old brick.
(c) Old Portland cement concrete.

Millions of square yards have been so laid over old macadam roads alone, including the famous Michigan boulevard, Chicago, and Commonwealth avenue, Boston.

2. Superiority of dense asphaltic concrete (commonly known as "Block") base in connection with either new construction or building up of depressions and weaknesses of old pavement to be used as foundation for new bituminous surfaces. Millions of more than 5,000,000 square yards of dense asphaltic base construction for road and street construction during the last ten years is "proof of the pudding" on this point of economic construction.

3. That, given a thoroughly well-drained and substantial sub-soil, Warren pavement can be successfully laid over compressed stone base. It has been successfully done in the case of an aggregate of more than 25,000,000 square yards. There is no other pavement having the wearing surface stability which makes this practically possible.

4. The stability of material is such that even before compression moving vehicles do not injure it. Consequently, it may be laid on country roads without detour, as has been done in many cases, including mountainous country, where detour is impossible. The traveling public, as well as officials, appreciate the economic importance of "no detour" in road construction.

5. The wearing surface may be so regulated as to texture of the immediate surface, so that Warrenite-Bitulithic provide a safe surface on steep grades."

Ice Cost Will Not Be Increased, Say Dealers

Housewives who have been alarmed by the fact that the average cost of twenty basic household commodities, which is 20 per cent. higher than in June, 1921, is mounting still higher, may have one gleam of comfort offered them. For the price of ice will not be increased this Summer.

Even though the record-breaking number of snowfalls put the ice dealers to unusual expense in preparing the ice for harvest, announcement is made by G. H. Voter, secretary of the Massachusetts Ice Dealers' Association, that no increase in price is contemplated.

Mr. Voter states:

"Despite various reports to the contrary, the Boston ice companies at this time contemplate no increase in the price of ice.

"The cost of harvesting the ice last Winter was extremely heavy, because in many cases the ice was buried under from two to five feet of snow. This led to the report that the people of Boston would have to pay more for their ice than they are now paying.

"As secretary of the association, I have been assured that no such action is now contemplated. Of course, an increase in freight rates, or some other similar unexpected expense, might force the companies to increase their price, but no such increase is expected."

USE PURE PAINT, ADVISES DEALER

The value of painting in preserving and beautifying a home is far more generally recognized now than formerly, due to the energetic information campaigns waged by paint manufacturers under the much advertised slogan: "Save the Surface and You Save All."

What needs to be impressed upon the average paint buyer now, according to Howe & French, Inc., of No. 101 Broad street, Boston, is the greater economy of using the very best grade of paint.

The purest paint made, according to this concern, is "Davis" paint for which Howe & French, Inc., are Boston distributors and retail agents. Every can is guaranteed to be 100 per cent. pure and to be free from adulteration in any form whatever. Only the finest old process linseed oil and old process white lead is used. The white zinc oxide is of selected quality and 100 per cent. pure. The label on every package contains a full statement of the ingredients.

Because of the purity of "Davis" paint, the covering capacity is claimed to be 25 per cent. to 50 per cent. greater than hand mixed white lead and linseed oil paints or other prepared paints, and it wears from two to five times longer. Since it costs as much to apply a gallon of impure paint as it does a gallon of pure paint, and since the greatest cost in painting is for labor, the saving by using 100 per cent. pure paint is considerable, and there is the additional advantage that buildings so painted retain their lustre and freshness for years.

RECEIVERS REDUCING LOSSES TO HOLDERS OF MONTANA STOCK

WILL OPERATE MINES WHILE ADJUSTING AFFAIRS

By BERT FORD.

Isadore H. Brand of New York, one of the ancillary receivers of Boston-Montana and subsidiaries, told the Boston American today that special inquiry is being made as to the fate of 700,000 shares of stock which was turned over to Hamilton B. Wills & Co., Ltd., of Toronto, for sale.

"Although this stock was valued at eighty cents a share at the time," said Mr. Brand, "Boston-Montana Corporation netted only about $66,000 from the transfer.

AFTER $3,000,000 MORE.

"We propose to get the equivalent of that stock in cash for the benefit of the corporation and stockholders. We also propose to force the American Discount Corporation to turn over the more than $3,000,000 worth of bonds which it holds.

"Everything humanly possible is being done to conserve assets.

"I told District Attorney O'Brien and Edwin L. Pride, the accountant, that my colleague, Mr. Muffley of Helena, Montana, and I wanted all the facts, regardless of whom disclosures might hit.

LOSSES EXAGGERATED.

"Stockholders should retain their stock. From investigations made we feel that the losses have not been so large as first quoted. I should say $4,500,000 a closer estimate than $25,000,000.

"We intend to operate the mines while we are straightening out the present muddle. It was for that purpose that I obtained from the court in Montana permission to issue $100,000 receivers' certificates.

"We plan to raise funds by sale of these receivers' certificates to continue operations at the mines. The overhead cost while the properties are idle is $350 a day and for $550 a day we can keep 100 men working and turn out 500 tons of ore weekly. Mr. Muffley said 100 men would be necessary.

SEES QUICK PROFITS

"Operations on such a scale would, we figure, yield $20,000 a month and it would not be long before the corporation would be reaping a profit.

"I visited the mines in February and talked with experts, among them Colonel Peeke, who is recognized as one of the greatest local authorities. Colonel Peeke told me that there was no reason why there sh uldn't be a yield of $30,000 a month, but I deducted all estimates 50 per cent. and was then convinced that the possibilities were great.

"The mines should be worked without delay and with funds from receivers' certificates to pay labor a showing can be made while legal complications are being ironed out. Everything possible should be done to avert further loss and to stimulate properties that give great promise."

"Stockholders, note and bond holders who desire any information, should communicate with my Boston office at No. 15 Exchange street or my New York office at No. 320 Broadway."

QUINCY BOY SCOUTS ARE AWARDED CUPS

An enthusiastic rally of Boy Scouts was held by Quincy Council in Quincy High School Hall, last evening. Scout Executive William E. Severance was in charge. The affair was attended by 200.

Efficiency cups were awarded as follows: First, Troop 5, First Parish Church, Quincy; second, Troop 19, Wollaston Baptist Church; third, Troop 14, Wollaston Congregational Church.

Mrs. John D. Mackay, retiring president of the Scout Auxiliary, composed of mothers of the Scouts, presented troop flags to the following: Troop 28, St. Paul's Methodist Church, West Quincy; Troop 27, Sacred Heart Church, Atlantic, and Troop 26, First Presbyterian Church, South Quincy.

An illustrated lecture was given by Commander Edward E. Breck, U. S. N., who told of experiences with wild game.

Others who spoke were Scout Commander C. L. Homer, Scout Executive Severance and Louis J. Jobin.

PAT EXECUTED FOR "HORRIBLE CRIME"

Portsmouth, N. H., April 14.—Pat Cat was executed here today at the Navy Yard. Cat was found guilty of a serious crime and paid the penalty with his life.

He was granted a stay of execution because navy officials refused to put him to death on Friday, the thirteenth, the day set for his demise. He died by chloroform administered by the chief pharmacist. Pat Cat was a fine feline. He is reported to have eaten pet goldfish.

CABLE BRIEFS

Paris (By A. P.)—Seventy-eight men and women, among whom were nine doctors and six druggists, appeared in the Paris police courts on charges of selling, procuring or using cocaine.

London — War Secretary Lord Derby, who returned today from Ulster Province, praised the constructive efforts of Premier Sir James Craig. "There is prosperity in Ulster," said Lord Derby. "All the people there want is to live in peace with their neighbors in the Irish Free State and conduct business with them."

Budapest—Railroad fares increased 50 per cent. here yesterday. A similar increase in postal charges will be in effect Sunday. Telephone and telegraph tolls will be doubled and there will be a 30 per cent. increase in the price of bread.

BANDITS SHOOT 3, BUT MISS PAYROLL

Detroit, April 14 (By International News Service)—Three occupants of a Charles B. Bohn Foundry Co. payroll car were shot, one possibly fatally, and at least two bandits were wounded, in a furious revolver battle today in which four bandits failed to obtain a $12,000 payroll.

William Bohn, thirty-five, employment manager for the company, was shot behind the ear and is believed to be dying. William Weakley was shot in the shoulder and Henry Sievart, forty-five, a guard, suffered two minor bullet wounds.

G. H. Ogden, twenty-nine, paymaster for the company, was the only man in the payroll car who escaped uninjured. His necktie was shot off.

Police Dept. to Help in Keeping Boston's Streets Clean

The police department hereafter will assist other authorities in keeping the city streets clean. Persons throwing refuse in thoroughfares and alleys will be taken to court.

Mayor Curley asked the aid of Police Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson, after receiving a report from Public Works Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke that more than $200,000 had been spent in the last four weeks in a clean-up campaign by O'Rourke's department.

Commissioner Wilson replied he would be glad to co-operate and send a notice to the police department to that effect.

BOSTON'S FIRST ELECTRIC HOME

How to get there: By trolley, on Norumbega cars westbound from Lake Street and Commonwealth Avenue. From Dudley Street via Harvard cars to Commonwealth. The Electric Home is in Wauwinet. West Newton, on Commonwealth Avenue. By motor, follow arrows at main trunk intersections.

BOSTON'S first Electric Home is ready, the latchstring is out—there's a welcome on the mat for you. And unless we're much mistaken, it marks the opening of a new era of comfort for Greater Boston.

The Electric Home is built by the Bonelli-Adams Co., co-operating with the Electric League of Boston, to give a practical demonstration, inside the walls of a charming modern dwelling, of the multitude of ways in which electricity can be put at the service of everyone. The Electric League of Boston is a co-operative body of nearly one hundred electrical producers, contractors, and merchants in Greater Boston.

It is furnished with the very latest word in electrical convenience, from egg-beater to dish-washer, from reading-lamp to cooking-range, with handy outlets everywhere, and a system of wiring which puts the whole house at the command of a push-button.

We want you to accept our hearty invitation to visit the Electric Home, inspect it, ask questions, and see how any one—or all—of its facilities can fit into your own plans for making your life a little more worth living.

The Electric Home will be open to the public every week-day free of charge, from 2 p. m. to 10 p. m., and expert guides will take you through the house and explain everything.

HEAVY DEMAND FOR NEW DORT SIX MODEL

"Business with us this Spring has shown a remarkable increase," says J. G. Utterback of the Utterback-Gleason Company, New England Dort distributor. "Of course we can account for some of this from the fact that the new Dort Six has struck a responsive chord among New England motor car buyers and there is a reason for this popularity for a car that may be called a 'new six.'

HAS THE QUALITY.

"Dort has the quality—a Six with the finest motor ever put in a car of its size, and a Four that has always had a reputation for being the staunchest built car in its class. Dort has the price, too. In a word, Dort is giving the highest value in an automobile that can be given for the money—and a lot of expert automobile men are saying the same thing.

"As far as performance is concerned we are glad to show what this car will do any time. We have put it through some mighty hard tests this Winter, and found that it makes good.

MOTOR IN OIL BATH.

"One of the things that impresses buyers is the remarkable oiling system. The motor literally runs in a bath of oil. You pour the oil into an opening on the housing over the overhead valves and the oil envelops the motor on its way down to the crank case where it is forced to the bearings, etc. The end of the rocker arms rest in a little cup which is always filled with oil, making action quiet and giving longer life with less adjustment."

Washington—Prince Capitani, the Italian Ambassador, is expected to notify the State Department of Italy that Italy stands ready to supply on short notice the 12,000,000 bushels of farm labor reported recently by the Department of Agriculture.

ASK MR. FIX-IT

Dear Mr. Fix-It—Could you inform me what years the Chalmers cars had a motor something like the 1913 one with a 4½-inch bore? Were the 1910, 11, 12 and 1914 year cars not about the same motor as to construction? That is, are the parts interchangeable, such as cylinder block, rods (connecting), rear end parts and so on? Also is there a firm in Boston that will buy used bearings in good condition of the steel ball type? Any information you will give me, will be greatly appreciated. I remain, H. C. Somerville.

In 1909 10, 11 and 12 Chalmers had a 6-inch bore. I believe in the latter part of 1912, 13 and 14 it had a 4½-inch bore. The parts on the 6-inch motors would be interchangeable and likewise the parts on the 4½-inch bore would be interchangeable. No one would buy second hand bearings, because there is no way of telling how far they had been run. You can get ball bearings for this old Chalmers from some of the bearings companies here in Boston.

Dear Mr. Fix-It—I can't when running down a hill with the motor shut off or when I am traveling on the level at very low speed. If I step every old boy "in motor." If I step every old boy "in motor." If I step every old boy "in motor." Will you please tell me the reason for it? R. F. Woburn.

This is probably due to worn bearings between the motor and the rear end. Probably your universal joints are worn and there is also lash in your differential and driving gears.

Dear Mr. Fix-It—Is there any mixture which can be used on a windshield so that rain will not obscure the vision? D. A. B., Fitchburg.

Of course most car owners use windshield wipers, and the automatic type of windshield wiper is almost indispensable. We understand, however, that a mixture composed of one ounce of glycerine and two ounces of alcohol (denatured will do) and a pinch of salt, rubbed on the windshield, always using a downward stroke, will prevent the rain impairing the vision through the windshield. We also have heard that a raw potato cut in halves and rubbed over the windshield will do the same thing, but have not tried this personally.

BANK OFFICER PRAISES FORD SAVING PLAN

Frank A. Newell, vice-president of the National Shawmut Bank of Boston, in response to an inquiry concerning the new Ford automobile proposition for the acquisition of Ford cars, said:

"Our decision to co-operate with the Ford Motor Company of Detroit in the Ford weekly purchase plan is simply in line with our general policy to extend every possible service to our customers and to the citizens of this community.

PROMOTES SAVINGS.

"It is an excellent plan to promote savings, the thing very essential to prosperity and the attainment of worthy ambition.

"The Ford Weekly Purchase Plan is going to be a boon to many families and permit them to buy a car much quicker than they ever dreamed," R. P. Jones, manager of the local Ford Branch, said today in discussing the new plan which is creating such widespread comment.

"In my experience as a Ford dealer, and I believe it's true with every other dealer and salesman as well, I have met many persons who expressed their desire to own a Ford and who frankly told me that some how they never could get together enough money to make the initial payment.

SIMPLIFIED BY PLAN.

"The result was that they went on wanting a car and hoping that some day something would turn up whereby they could get a car. Now that 'something' has turned up. The Ford Weekly Purchase Plan simplifies it all and makes it easy to own a car.

NASH CAR SALES ESTABLISH NEW RECORD

Establishing new records in the sale of Nash cars, not alone for New England, but for the entire country, is becoming the regular thing with C. P. Rockwell, distributor for New England.

The latest achievement of his organization is to have delivered last week at retail more new cars than any Nash distributor in the United States ever delivered for the same period.

When it is known that there are forty large distributors throughout the country, this latest accomplishment of the New England organization is decidedly impressive and speaks well for the intelligent discrimination of New England automobile buyers.

Mr. Rockwell says "These are Nash times, and I attribute them in a great measure to New England Nash owners' enthusiastic endorsement of the Nash car, and their approval of our methods of merchandising. It is our purpose to render service equal to the quality of the car, and to have every Nash owner satisfied.

science reduces it? Not much.

The "Engineering Foundation" tells you that iron becomes soft when buried in salt water for long periods. Cast iron shot, brought to the surface after 282 years under salt water, gradually became red hot, then fell to pieces.

Cannon and shot 133 years in the sea, could be easily sliced with a jack knife. There's mystery for you. Iron is an element. If in a few years salt water can change its nature, what would a small slice of eternity do to all the elements?

Is iron, like ourselves, such stuff as dreams are made of, and what is permanent, anything?

YOU KNOW what the war did for profiteers, making thousands of new millionaires. The Department of Agriculture tells what it did for farmers. Products of the farm, in their power to buy other products, are 31 per cent. below their value of 1913.

The farmer fed the war, his sons helped fight the war, his wheat prices were held down by law—while all trust prices soared, and his reward is cutting 51 cents from each dollar of his product, as compared with pre-war days.

In those figures Henry Ford, with his promise of cheaper fertilizer, farms lighted and worked by water power, etc., will find his opportunity.

THE REV. FATHER CHARLES DILLON of St. Augustine's Roman Catholic Church in Kalamazoo, who shot and killed Father Henry O'Neill, pastor of this church, says in his defence, "God Almighty justified it, otherwise he would not have permitted me to fire the revolver." This false reasoning, which would justify every crime including the robbing of poor boxes, is not without its value. It tends to prove the insanity of the unfortunate priest.

IN A SHORT time there were 1,300 arrests for bootlegging on Manhattan Island alone, and only eighteen convictions. Magistrate Carrigan says this means that the police were in league with the bootleggers, bribed to suppress evidence, or it means that Grand Juries, judges and district attorneys were bribed.

There is another possibility. It may mean that New York does not believe in the prohibition law. It is hard to enforce a law in which the people lack faith.

New York—Nineteen patrolmen, alleged to have paid $1,500 each to have themselves promoted to the rank of sergeant through fraudulent manipulation of civil service papers, were suspended.

REFUGEE STARK IS CAPTOR OF VLADIVOSTOK

Riga, April 14 (By International News Service).—A flood in the Moskva Valley, caused by Spring rains and melting snow, threatens to inundate Moscow, said a dispatch from that city today.

Riga, April 14 (By International News Service).—Admiral Stark, of the old Russian navy, who fled from Vladivostok in a refugee ship when that city fell into the hands of the Red army, led the "white" forces that recaptured the city from the Soviet troops this week, according to word received here today from Helsinfors.

Stark is said to have captured Vladivostok with the aid of local "white" troops after the last of the Japanese soldiers had departed. Fighting is reported also from the Yakutsk section of Siberia.

For weeks Admiral Stark and his fellow refugees drifted between China, Japan and the Philippine Islands seeking a port that would allow them to land. They had little or no food and no arms or ammunition, which makes a mystery out of their capture of the great port of Vladivostok, with its seaside fortifications.

GRAY FACTORY SWAMPED BY ORDERS

"With dealer and distributor applications pouring into the Gray factory from all over the United States and the world, and with hundreds of orders coming in with every mail, the plant is being taxed to capacity," says Wald H. Brown, local distributor.

"While factory officials are holding back sales and production figures at this time, it was stated that orders received within the last six weeks are in excess of the entire production program of the Gray company last year. Orders on hand will run the plant to capacity to May 1.

"Frank L. Klingensmith, president of the Gray Motor Corporation, predicts that this year will prove one of the largest in the history of the automotive industry, and will clearly demonstrate that the low-priced, light-weight, quality car is the choice of the general buying public."

ANNOUNCEMENT

of Interest to

MILLIONS of FAMILIES

"I will build a car for the multitude"

Said Henry Ford in 1903—Read how the fulfillment of that prophecy is now made possible through the

Ford Weekly Purchase Plan

For many years it has been Henry Ford's personal ambition to make the Ford the universal family car — to put it within the reach of the millions of people who have never been privileged to enjoy the benefits of motor car ownership.

During the past fifteen years over 7,500,000 Ford cars have been placed in the hands of retail customers—more than a million and a half of them within the past twelve months —and yet there are still millions of families who are hopefully looking forward to the day when they can own a Ford.

And now the way is open.

Under the terms of this plan you can select your Ford Car, set aside a small amount each week and you will be surprised how soon you will own it. In the meantime your money will be safely deposited to your credit in one of the local banks where it will draw interest.

Think it over. Five dollars will start an account. The whole family can participate in it — father, mother, brothers and sisters each doing a little.

Why not start today. Stop in and talk it over with your local Ford dealer. He will be glad to fully explain the details of the plan and help you to get started toward the ownership of a Ford car.

Society Girls Aid Army and Navy Club, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN.

MRS. BARRETT WENDELL, who has been abroad for the Winter, is expected to return later in the month, I believe. She passed several months at Algiers, where she joined Miss Rose Dexter of Beacon street.

Returning at the same time with Mrs. Wendell will be her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Devens Osborne (Edith Wendell), who've been making their home in South Auburn, N. Y. Mr. Osborne, a Harvard '10 man, is a member of the Somerset and Tennis and Racquet Clubs, while the former Edith Wendell retains her membership in the Chilton Club.

Apropos of the Wendell clan, Mrs. Wendell's son, Barrett Wendell, and his wife, though they have been making their home in Chicago for several seasons, spent much of their time the past Winter in Boston, where Mr. Wendell and the one-time Barbara Higginson received a hearty welcome into the ranks of their smart coterie.

MRS. MARLAND C. HOBBS has procured a group of girls to sell flowers on Monday evening at the benefit performances of "The Fool" in aid of the Army and Navy Club. Many society folk will be there, as well as a host of prominent army and navy dignitaries.

Among the girls who will serve as flower vendors are the Misses Lucy Harding, Edith Blanchard, Rebekah Hobbs, Katherine Chadwick, Ethel Satterlee, Frances Kemble, Pauline Barry and Rosamond Johnson, as well as Mrs T. Eustis Francis, Mrs. Gelston King and Mrs. Albert Lincoln.

The benefit performances of Channing Pollock's play will open the many events of Patriots' Weeks, which has been set aside by the Army and Navy Service Committee to raise funds for the maintenance of the Army and Navy Club.

MRS. MALCOLM LANG heads a committee which is planning a rummage sale for the benefit of Denison House on May 1 at Horticultural Hall. Others on the committee include Mrs. E. Preble Motley, Mrs. George Lyman, Jr., and Mrs. L. Cushing Goodhue. All donations may be sent to the Arlington Street Church.

Mrs. Marland Hobbs (Edith Newlin) of Brookline is in charge of the society flower girls at the benefit performance of "The Fool" to open Patriots' Week in aid of the Army and Navy Club.

MRS. HELEN DRAPER TAFT spent a short while in New York prior to sailing for a several months' stay abroad. Mrs. Taft, who divides her time between the Commonwealth avenue home and the country estate at Hopedale of her father, George A. Draper, returned only recently from a long sojourn in Bermuda, where there was quite a large Boston colony during the colder months.

MRS. DANIEL B. FEARING has returned to the Muenchinger King in Newport after a visit here with her nephew, George Richmond Fearing, at the latter's home on Beacon street.

THE marriage of Miss Constance D'Arcy Mackay to Roland Holt, both of New York, is of interest to society in Boston, for last September Miss Elisabeth Cabot, younger daughter of the T. Handasyd Cabots of Boston, became the bride of Mr. Holt's brother, Henry Holt, Jr. The latter served as best man at the Holt-Mackay nuptials, which were solemnized a few days ago in New York at Grace Church.

FIVE LOSE LIVES AS BARGE FLOUNDERS

Lewis, Del., April 14.—Five persons lost their lives off the Delaware Capes early today when the barge Stroudsburg, in tow from Norfolk for New England, foundered during a gale.

The dead include Frank West, captain of the barge, and his wife. One member of the crew named Beach, from Granite Falls, N. C., was rescued.

LINER CARMANIA TO DOCK HERE SUNDAY

The Cunard liner Carmania arrived off the lightship today from Liverpool and Queenstown. She will dock at East Boston Sunday. The liner is twenty-four hours ahead of her schedule, having encountered fine weather all the way. She will land 1,030 passengers in three classes here and proceed to New York with 815 steerage passengers.

BROADCAST BY WNAC TO BE ON 286 METERS

In accordance with the new wave length allocation just released by Secretary Hoover, Station WNAC of the Shepard Stores, will broadcast on 286 meters beginning next Tuesday.

For the New England district the 100 watt stations have been assigned the band from 222 to 286 meters, assignments to be made approximately thirty meters apart. These assignments are optional, however and stations may remain on 360 meters if they wish. The 10 per cent. variation either way which has been previously allowed, will no longer be permitted.

Station WNAC has altered their antenna equipment to conform with the new length and a special engineer has come from Washington to make tests with the transmitter and determine its efficiency at the new wave. The results indicate a probable loss of 25 per cent. signal strength.

This will not be noticeable to tube set users, but the crystal set owners more than ten miles distant will feel it more or less. Theoretically, however, the transmission should be clearer at 286 meters, due to the greater frequency.

The new wave length will be a boon to "DX hounds," as many of the high-powered inland stations will broadcast on lengths as high as 500 meters or more.

NEMESIS OF COAL GOUGERS CITED

Charles B. Whooley, sealer of weights and measures, is faithful to his job. So when coal gougers began "gyping" the public he started a vigorous campaign. Scores were arrested and fined. The public was protected. It was part of his duties and Whooley thought no more of it.

Attorney-General Jay R. Benton, surveying the prosecution of coal throughout the State, picked up his pen and dashed off a letter of commendation. It was addressed to Mayor Curley. So today the Mayor told Whooley that he would put an order in to the City Council Monday for a $50 a year increase in salary. He now gets $3,000.

Our Co-Operation in the New

Ford Weekly Purchase Plan

Following out our policy of extending the facilities of this bank in whatever way we can to serve the public, we have arranged to give our co-operation to the new Ford Weekly Purchase Plan.

We realize what the automobile means to the average family in bringing them greater enjoyment of life, and believe our action in helping those who desire to become Ford owners will be appreciated by many families who can now realize that ambition through the new Ford Weekly Purchase Plan.

Under this plan, you can begin with an initial deposit as low as $5.00. Then select the type of Ford Car you want—Touring Car, Runabout, Coupe, Sedan, etc.,—and arrange to make weekly deposits on which interest will be computed at our regular savings rate.

Come in and let us explain the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan to you, or, if you wish, go to the nearest Ford Dealer for further details.

Start today, and before you realize it you will be driving your own car.

STAGE AND SCREEN
BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN

BOLD AMATEURS TO GIVE "THE FOOL"

By NICHOLAS YOUNG.

A SECURE and comfortable escape from idle hours was all Alexandra Carlisle craved—and she got it. The idea of a special, hand picked and personally groomed company of local amateurs to be drilled and presented in full professional style in a performance of "The Fool" may have originated in the mind of Miss Carlisle, who more than once has plucked a thrill out of her highly artistic life by leading hidden talent out of darkness into the glare of footlights. Whoever is responsible, Miss Carlisle got her wish with a fervid rush that left the prospect of idle hours far in the rear. For more than six weeks Miss Carlisle has been toiling with obscure talent—raw artistic material—tossing aside unpromising aspirants and polishing likely candidates into the ways of the theatre. Miss Carlisle had asked for extra work and they piled it on in the form of labor that was as hard as the hardest. But virtue may be depended upon to furnish its own reward and Miss Carlisle proposes to collect payment in full on Tuesday afternoon at the Selwyn when she will hold up to public gaze, at regular rates, her band of ambitious beginners. To make it more interesting, the Selwyns, who run the theatre, and Channing Pollock, who has something of a fatherly regard for his play, have decided to give the entire receipts of the performance to the Mystic Shrine Hospital for Crippled Children. The Shriners will see to it that Miss Carlisle's proteges have the benefit of a crowded house. Miss Carlisle is proud of her band of players and promises a performance of "The Fool" that will supply all necessary thrills and no disappointments. "They may be amateurs," she explained yesterday, "but they have developed an artistic sense that is astonishing when you consider their individual inexperience. Every member of the company is keen for the big event—and for them it is a really big moment in their lives. Some of them may run into a little high fever before they reach home for dinner Tuesday evening, but even seasoned professionals have been known to do that at a first performance. We're going to manage very well Tuesday afternoon, and we're going to drop a surprise or two along the way."

READY TO BLOOM—The four principal roles in "The Fool" at Miss Carlisle's amateur performance will be played by Helen St. Leger, No. 238 West Newton street, as Clare; E. N. Hunt, No. 130 Sumner avenue, Reading, as Gilchrist; William J. Parker, No. 484 Boylston street, as Jerry; and Mary Walsh, No. 12 Folsom street, Dorchester, as Mary Margaret.

OTHER BEGINNERS ASSAIL "H. M. S. PINAFORE."

IT might almost be suspected that amateurs were taking over the theatres of Boston. As a rival to Miss Carlisle's adventure at the Selwyn, another group of anxious seekers for artistic achievement will show Gilbert and Sullivan's "H. M. S. Pinafore" at Loew's State Theatre for a week beginning Monday. This venture is something of a continuation of the Orpheum Frolics, which proved a happy success at the Loew houses a few weeks ago. Under the direction of Victor Hyde, imported for the task, a company of singers, actors and comedians have been gathered from the four corners of Greater Boston, and if the popular comic opera of more than a generation ago does not yield satisfying results on this brief rejuvenation the cause may not be attributed to lack of painstaking direction or to the absence of company interest. The news has been allowed to sift through the Loew press department that the company of sixty, which is to take up the difficult musical burdens of "Pinafore," was selected from more than 700 applicants for operatic honors. Inasmuch as nearly all of the successful candidates for places in the cast are already studying voice culture at local schools there may be good reason for the belief that vocally, at least, "Pinafore" will be in fairly safe hands.

Henrietta Brooks, who will show how "Pinafore" should be done.

SPRING PLANTING—Channing Pollock, whose success with "The Fool" has made him a steady and regular guest at clubs needing a fluent luncheon talker, is to have a new honor thrust upon him next Thursday morning, when the Mayor will dig a hole in Boston Common and plant a new tree. The tree will be dedicated to the distinguished author-playwright, who will be present at the ceremonies. Yes, he will make a speech on the rise of the native drama.

SHELDON COULDN'T FOLLOW THE PRESIDENT.

THIS department has received a letter so nearly tragic in tone that it deserves publication:

Dear Mr. Young:

I notice in the American that our worthy president, Mr. Warren G. Harding, has purchased the farm upon which he was born. He sets an example to all men to buy, as a monument to their activities in this world, the property upon which they first saw the light of day. Being a good citizen of these United States, I am sorry to say that I will not be able to follow Mr. Harding's lead in this particular case, for the reason that I was born on the corner of Broadway and Thirty-third street, New York city. This property is now occupied by the Hotel McAlpin, estimated as worth $15,000,000. As I am just 82 cents short of that amount, I shall have to permit Mr. Harding to proceed along these lines without me. Yours very truly,

ARTHUR J. SHELDON,
General Manager, Shubert Theatres.

P. S.—My father might have bought the place for a song when he lived there, but unfortunately he was not a singer—he was a comedian.—A. J. S.

The moral to this story seems to be that a son should pick his father with great care, and especially avoid comedians if singers are available.

THERE will be a birthday party at the Plymouth on Monday evening. It may not be much of a celebration as far as demonstrations go, but it will have the entire indorsement of Messrs. Shubert and Hurtig, as well as members of the "Just Married" company. "Just Married" will be two years old—a husky child of the drama as things go in these perilous days. For more than 650 consecutive performances this play has been piling up profits for its producers, which, possibly, is one of the reasons why it is a popular theatrical infant. Entering upon its final week, "Just Married" may be looked upon as one of the real surprises of the season, as it will round out fourteen full weeks before departing on a tour through rural New England. To have lived and prospered for so many weeks, coming through the lean days of Lent without showing any marked shrinkage in receipts, is a record that will give the Monday birthday party an additional cause for joyous expression.

Has Strangle Hold on Economics

By VIOLA ROACH,
Boston Stock Company, St. James Theatre.

A woman's independence is based upon her ability to produce. If she is noncreative and nonproductive, all the constitutional amendments in the United States could never place her on an equal footing with man. Vote if she must, smoke if she will, but unless she creates something that places her on the same productive and financial basis as man she is without right to believe she is independent.

Couldn't Stop This Parisian Maid

It is placing somewhat of a handicap on fame to hope for stage success in a country where one is unable to speak the language, but this is just the situation that confronted Marcelle D'Arville, at present in the cast of "Just Married" at the Plymouth, when she first landed in New York, fresh from her native Paris.

Marcelle D'Arville

"You see," she explained, in somewhat broken English, "I loved the theatre and its life. But I knew I could never hope to succeed until I had mastered some English. In New York I had a girl friend who spoke both French and English, and it was she who took me to Theodore Kosloff at the time he was training dancers for the ballet in 'The Wanderer.'

"It was really funny, because I was not a dancer.

PLAYS THAT REMAIN

Who's Who and What's What at the Theatres with a Line or Two About the Current Attractions.

By NICHOLAS YOUNG

"Just Married" at the Plymouth. (Fourteenth week.) The end of a long and prosperous run for this spirited farce of real and near honey-mooners, Vivian Martin and Lynne Overman leading the parade. Last week.

—o— —o— —o—

"To the Ladies!" with Helen Hayes at the Wilbur. (Third week.) Thin waisted comedy based on the rule of woman and the incapacity of man in business. The last week.

—o— —o— —o—

"The Fool" at the Selwyn. (Tenth week.) One of those unusual plays that catches the non-theatregoer and convinces him that the stage isn't as bad as it is painted. Something of a sermon.

—o— —o— —o—

"Six Cylinder Love," with Ernest Truex at the Tremont. (Second week.) A timely comedy of modern life that shouts its warning to the young man who would mortgage his own home for an automobile.

—o— —o— —o—

"Lightnin'" at the Hollis. (Seventeenth week.) Hitting it up for a new long run record in Boston, with every indication that a new high level will be reached.

—o— —o— —o—

African Wild Animal Hunt at the Park. (Second week.) Moving pictures of the African jungle, showing wild animal life in its native habitat. Many thrilling views.

HARKINS' BENEFIT

There will be a memorial concert at the Tremont Theatre tomorrow evening, the proceeds of which will be added to a trust fund for the family of the late Edward J. Harkins. The program will be made up of features from the local theatres, and will include Jack Norworth from B. F. Keith's, Lynne Overman from the "Just Married" company, Louis Harrison from "To the Ladies" company, Leo Reisman's Brunswick orchestra, the 101st Regiment Band and John O'Shaughnessy. Mayor Curley will take part in the program and deliver an address on "Loyalty."

The program will be in charge of Percy Pollock of the "Lightnin'" company, who will serve as announcer.

VALENTINO COMING

One of the features of the Patriots' Day festivities will be the appearance of Mr. and Mrs. Rodolph Valentino in two performances at the Arena. The famous lover of the screen and his wife will present their dancing act at afternoon and evening dansants. Before and after the appearance of Mr. and Mrs. Valentino there will be general dancing.

Mr. Valentino is making a whirlwind tour of New England cities and his visit to Boston is limited to one day.

STATE BALLROOM

Dance lovers of Boston continue to patronize in generous numbers the State Theatre Ballroom, where refined dansants are held regularly on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings. The remaining nights of the week are given over to private organizations. So keen is the demand for the use of the State Ballroom, that hardly a vacant day is opened for the next two months.

SOMERVILLE PLAYERS

"The Lion and the Mouse," a play by Charles Klein that has held its popularity for more than a decade, will be presented by the Somerville Players next week. The principle roles will be played by Ann Hamilton, Harry Bond and Philip Sheffield.

Paderewski, the distinguished Polish pianist, will give his third and final concert in Symphony Hall on Sunday afternoon, April 22.

BENEFIT PERFORMANCE

Official Army and Navy life will be represented Monday at the Selwyn Theatre where "The Fool" is playing, the occasion being a benefit performance given to the Army and Navy Club of Boston.

Florence Macbeth, the coloratura soprano of the Chicago Opera Company, will appear as soloist at the fifth and last concert of the Monday evening series by the Boston Symphony Orchestra which will take place April 23.

TRUMBULL RECITAL

Florence Trumbull will appear for the first time in Boston, in a piano recital in Steinert Hall on Tuesday afternoon. Miss Trumbull is an American, related on the maternal side to Strawbridges and Pierson, of Revolutionary fame (Samuel Pierson was the first president of Yale.) Jonathan Trumbull, a forebear on the paternal side, was the celebrated "Brother Jonathan" Trumbull. Miss Trumbull studied with Leschetizky, and afterwards became one of his assistants, preparing pupils for him.

NEXT WEEK'S NEW BILLS

COLONIAL—Mitzi in a new musical production, "Minnie and Me"; book by Zelda Sears and music by Harold Levy; presented in a prologue and three acts. The story begins in the time and manner of the Arabian Nights and shifts to New York city of today. The author calls her work a "fantastic comedy, with music."

—o— —o— —o—

SHUBERT—Al Jolson in "Bombo," announced as a typical Jolson entertainment, with the energetic star running true to form. "Bombo" goes back to the days of Christopher Columbus and Jolson is discovered as the body servant to the bold captain of the seas. Of course, Mr. Jolson will sing, and the original New York company is promised.

—o— —o— —o—

MAJESTIC—"Galeties of 1923," in twenty-six scenes and a half hundred girls from the Broadway show mill. The company is headed by Sam Howard, who is presented as both a comedian and singer. The piece comes under the general classification of "revue," with dancers, novelties and startling innovations in costuming.

—o— —o— —o—

B. F. KEITH'S—Vaudeville, headed by Frank Tinney in a new comedy skit called "Meet the Wife." Other features are Harriet Remple in a romance of circus life, "The Heart of a Clown"; Herbert Clifton, late of the Ziegfeld Follies; Grette Ardine in a dancing act, "The French Mode"; Redman and Wells, Kay, Hamilton and Kay, Millard and Martin and the M. E. G. Lime Trio.

—o— —o— —o—

ST. JAMES—"When We Were Twenty-One," an old comedy that served Nat Goodwin and Maxine Elliot in the days of their ascendancy. The principal roles will be taken by Walter Gilbert, Mark Kent, Ralph Remley, Adelyn Bushnell and Viola Roach.

—o— —o— —o—

TREMONT TEMPLE—"Hunting Big Game in Africa With Gun and Camera," an extended title that represents one of the most thorough picturizations of the African jungle ever brought to public view. This film is the result of a three-year expedition into the wilds of Africa, led by H. A. Snow and backed by the California Museum of Natural History.

AGUGLIA IN ITALIAN DRAMA

Two French plays are included in the repertoire of the Boston Italian dramatic company during its week of activity at the Arlington beginning Monday. "Teresa Raquin," by Emile Zola, is scheduled for Tuesday evening, and "Madame X," by A. Bisson, will be given as a matinee on Patriots' Day.

Mimi Aguglia

The leading role in "Teresa Raquin" will be played by Maria Bazzi, who is well known both in this country and Europe. For "Madame X" Manager Tommaso Nazzaro has secured the services of Mimi Aguglia, an Italian actress of many artistic achievements.

The repertoire for the week will be as follows: Monday, "Cause ed Effetti"; Tuesday, "Teresa Raquin"; Wednesday, "La Nemica"; Thursday matinee, "Madame X"; Thursday night, "L'Ereda"; Friday, "La Figlia Del Popolo"; Saturday matinee, "La Copia Vendica la Copia"; Saturday night, "Tosca," and Sunday night, April 22, "La Forza Chulsa."

Baltimore Breeze Blew Barry to the Stage

A Baltimore breeze blew John Barry into stage dancing and ultimate success. It was an indirect blow, however. The breeze blew off a man's hat first and that started Barry after the hat.

John Barry, featured comedian and eccentric dancer with the "Bon Tons" at Waldron's Casino next week, was a Baltimore kid. He was nimble on his feet and was eternally practising clog and other steps in boyish fashion. So he chased a stranger's hat.

This stranger was a professional dancer and took Johnny under his professional wing. This led to Johnny's getting a try-out in a "Tab" show with James Barton, and the rest was easy.

Jolson Says It's Hard to Find Good Jokes

"It is easier to pick good songs than good jokes," says Al Jolson. "People often ask me how I pick my jokes. Well, take my word for it, finding good jokes is harder than working twenty-four a day. I get swamped with jokes from every part of the country, but I rarely find one good enough to purchase. Most of them are either too long or too risque for me to tell. Every joke I tell has to be simple and short. People sort of cock their ears to catch every word. That is the strain. So the shorter jokes are the better.

"Also, to be really funny, jokes have got to be personal. Jokes about married life go well, because the majority of people are married and know all about it."

MASONIC CLUBS TO HOLD STYLE SHOW

The convention committee of the Massachusetts Federation of Masonic Clubs is making efforts to secure a fund to pay the expenses for entertaining the delegates attending the eighteenth annual convention of the National League of Masonic Clubs, which meets in Boston the week of June 11. To carry out the scheme a style show will be held at the Copley-Plaza Hotel on Tuesday evening.

LADIES' NIGHT AT DORCHESTER CLUB

Ladies' Night was held by the Dorchester Club. The women members of the club are taking an active part in the coming Mayzar to be held at the clubhouse on Talbot avenue on May 3, 4 and 5. Gifts will be awarded on the different nights.

TWO SOLOISTS PLAY WITH SYMPHONY

By ZOE FABER

In point of numbers, three out of five, the modems held the stage of the twenty-first Symphony concert yesterday afternoon, but as a matter of fact, the absorbing part of the afternoon was the latter half of the program and that was devoted entirely to an old gentleman, long gone, Johannes Brahms.

It was his symphony in D major and after all the dissonances and troubled rhythms of the foregoing half of the program, it was joy to hear the clear expressions of the musical thoughts of a great genius. Mr. Monteux's reading, particularly of the first and the last two movements, was especially effective.

Georges Laurent, flautist from orchestra, played the solo part in two numbers, "A Night Piece," by Arthur Foote, and "Fete Galante," by D. S. Smith. Of the two, the former was very much more interesting than the latter. Mr. Foote acknowledged the repeated demands of the audience for the composer.

Ernest Bloch's Rhapsody for violoncello and orchestra (solo part by Jean Bedetti of the orchestra) also had a place in the program that Mr. Monteux assembled with what seemed like a view to bringing out all the latent beauties of the classic music in contrast with the much vaunted modern. Mr. Bedetti did his best, and like Mr. Laurent was recalled many times.

O'MORE IS PLEASING.

The kind of a brogue that can make "fever" rhyme with "saver" is not to be acquired. It is born in you. Among other things, that helps to make the old Irish tunes such a delight when Colin O'More sings them.

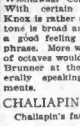
His audience, which was almost large enough to fill Symphony Hall, was enthusiastic over his program, the enthusiasm running rather more to the Irish and English songs than the French.

Colin O'More's singing is a pleasure. The voice is, for the most part, of sweet quality; there is power when wanted; the range is good and the musicianship, too.

Assisting Mr. O'More was Emilie Rose Knox, violinist. Miss Knox played two movements from the Wieniawski Concerto in D minor. With certain reservations, Miss Knox is rather a good violinist. The tone is broad and deep and there is a good feeling for each individual phrase. More work on the accuracy of octaves would not be amiss. Carl Brunner at the piano played generally speaking, able accompaniments.

CHALIAPIN'S CONCERT

Chaliapin's farewell concert of the season in Boston will take place in Symphony Hall tomorrow afternoon. The singer has not announced any program. There will be distributed free among the audience a booklet with complete texts in English for those familiar with the Russian language.



Assistant Conductor Pierre Monteux will conduct the "Surprise" Symphony of Haydn, Respighi's "Ballad of the Gnomides" and Rimsky-Korsakoff's Suite from the Opera "Czar Saltan."

MATZENAUER, SOLOIST

As soloist at the twenty-second pair of Boston Symphony concerts to be given in Symphony Hall next Friday afternoon and Saturday evening, Margaret Matzenauer, mezzo soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, will sing with the orchestra Isolde's Narrative from Act 1 of Wagner's music drama and an Aria from "Oberon," Pierre Monteux will conduct the "Surprise" Symphony of Haydn, Respighi's "Ballad of the Gnomides" and Rimsky-Korsakoff's Suite from the Opera "Czar Saltan."

VAUDEVILLE AND PICTURES

LOEW'S STATE—Gilbert and Sullivan's comic opera, "H. M. S. Pinafore," with a cast and chorus made up entirely of ambitious young singers from Greater Boston; trained by Victor Hyde. An elaborate production is promised. The picture feature for the week is Gloria Swanson in "Prodigal Daughters." Also news and comedy reels.

MODERN AND BEACON — Jack Pickford in "Garrison's Finish," from W. B. M. Ferguson's novel of the same title; also Paul J. Rainey's newest hunting picture "The Heart of the Jungle" and Lupin Lane in a five-reel comedy, "A Friendly Husband."

CODMAN SQUARE — Norma Talmadge in "The Voice from the Minaret," and Billie Dove and Lon Chaney in "All the Brothers Were Valiant," for three days. Beginning Thursday Harold Lloyd in "Grandma's Boy," and "Skin Deep."

BOSTON—"Has the World Gone Mad?" with Elinor Fear, Mary Alden and Charles Richman; also six vaudeville features headed by Ben Welch.

CENTRAL SQUARE—Cecil B. DeMille's production of "Adam's Rib," for three days. Beginning Thursday, Douglas MacLean in "Bell Boy 13" and "The Third Alarm." Also vaudeville.

STRAND — "Adam's Rib" and "Ocean Swells," for three days. Beginning Thursday, "What a Wife Learned" and "The Third Alarm."

BOWDOIN SQUARE—Rose's Royal Midgets and other vaudeville features. The photoplay feature is "The Village Blacksmith"; also Pearl White in "Plunder."

OLYMPIA—Douglas MacLean in "Bell Boy 13," and "Money, Money, Money," with Katherine MacDonald. Also five acts of vaudeville.

WASHINGTON — Harry Carey in "Canyon of the Fools" and Dorothy Dalton in "Dark Secrets," for three days. Bill changes on Thursday.

ORPHEUM—Vaudeville, featuring J. Rosamond Johnson and his five spirited associates in a musical novelty called "Syncopation." Five other acts round out the vaudeville side of the bill. The photoplay feature will be Rebe Daniels in "Glimpses of the Moon," taken from Edith Wharton's novel. Also news and comedy reels.

SCOLLAY SQUARE—"The Third Alarm" and Johnny Hines in "Luck." Also five acts of vaudeville and a news reel.

LANCASTER—"The Bolted Door," with Frank Mayo, and Harold Lloyd in "A Sailor Made Man," for three days. Beginning Thursday, Jackie Coogan in "Oliver Twist" and "Gimme."

CAPITOL—"The Isle of Lost Ships" and "Entertaining the Boss," with Carter DeHaven; also the "Einstein Theory of Relativity" reduced to picture form for the every-day citizen.

Most Gorgeously Gowned Woman Is Man

The most gorgeously gowned woman in the entire realm of vaudeville isn't a woman at all, it's Herbert Clifton, an English impersonator of the fair sex who is headlining at the B. F. Keith Theatre next week. Clothes may not make every woman, but they make a most entrancing one of Mr. Clifton, whose gowns are as bizarre and intriguing as any ever caught in the magic circle of the spotlight.

In 1910 Mr. Clifton played vaudeville in America with Percy Williams. From that time on he vascillated between America and England gaining in popularity with successive years. Although his speaking voice is a rumbling bass, he can sing with perfect ease in the soaring heights of a coloratura soprano.

AT THE BURLESQUE HOUSES

WALDRON'S CASINO

Jacob's and Jermon's "Bon Tons," a gorgeous musical revue with John Barry as featured comedian, come to Waldron's Casino next week. The three-in-one continuous bill will be rounded out with vaudeville and moving pictures of quality. The revue offered by the "Bon Tons" includes two big acts and, twelve colorful scenes. The chorus is described as being Bandpicked. John Barry, comedian of original and individual methods, has Bob Stratsman for chief assistant in the comedy intervals. Walter LaFoy will aid in the comedy. Jean DeLisle will be prima donna and leader in the fashion show. One of the novelties will be illustrations of moving picture titles by the players.

Lou Barry

GAYETY THEATRE

"Step On It," one of the merriest comedy vehicles that ever broke traffic rules on the burlesque highway, whizzes into the Gayety Theatre next week bearing George Niblo, Helen Spencer and a supporting company of two score principals and chorus girls. Taking the audience aboard the company bears them off, amid hilarious laughter, to "The Isle of Wha Wha," where the plot reveals a beautiful Queen, who yearns to marry any rich young American. The plot furnishes the "gas," so to speak, for this burlesque motor, and there is enough to make it go with vim and laughter.

Helen Spencer

George Niblo, the featured member of the company, has the role of a tramp comedian, a part in which he excels.

Chicago Critic Praises Negro's "Salome"

One of the dramatic novelties of the year will be the appearance of The Ethiopian Art Dramatic Company at the Arlington Theatre beginning Monday, April 23, in Oscar Wilde's play, "Salome." The company, composed entirely of negro players, comes here after a season of twenty-six weeks in Chicago, where they created a furore among the lovers of dramatic art in that city. Ashton Stevens, the well-known critic of the Chicago Herald-Examiner, in his review said: "I felt that I should have been more astonished that the colored players at the Avenue Theatre were better in the pagan setting and melodious rhetoric of Oscar Wilde's "Salome" than in a contemporary comedy of and by one of themselves. But then, I should have remembered that the Negro is by temperament histronic, his imagination working out from, rather than in upon, himself. He is, at any rate, a very satisfactory actor in this rich and colorful spread of 'Salome.'"

COMEDIAN OF JUNGLE IS WARTHOG

A new rival to Charlie Chaplin has been discovered. But he will never draw Chaplin's salary. Indeed, it is doubtful if he will ever make a second appearance on the screen. For his domicile is in Central Africa, and he is a giant warthog. But he provides much of the comedy for "Hunting Big Game in Africa with Gun and Camera," the animal film which comes to Tremont Temple next Tuesday evening.

The giant warthog performs antics with a flivver in this remarkable picture, taken during the course of a scientific expedition to get specimens for the Oakland Museum of Natural History, which would put to shame the average movie comedian.

Chased around the veldt by a flivver driven by H. A. Snow, head of the expedition and its chief huntsman, and occupied by Sydney Snow, cameraman of the outfit, the warthog suddenly decided to turn and charge his pursuers.

After numerous vain attempts to reduce the flivver to a mere mass of metal, the comical beast sat down on his haunches and surveyed the somewhat battered radiator of the machine with an expression which Ben Turpin might envy.

From Soda Fountain to Winter Garden Show

Exhibit A is Frank Masters, who really owes his place on the stage to the fact that while dispensing soda in a Broadway drug store in the theatrical district he fractured his arm. Frank Masters is now one of the dancing features of "Gaities of 1923," at the Majestic, but it was only about six years ago that he forsook his native Jackson, Miss., to seek fame and fortune in New York. He started humbly enough and the broken arm looked like a terrible catastrophe. Masters whiled away his time by dancing, smiling the time when the arm would be sufficiently strong to handle the throttle of a soda fountain.

By that time, however, he couldn't get his old job back, but he landed another as a dresser to Ed Wynn, the comedian. Masters took Wynn's advice and found a place for himself in "Flo Flo." His dancing came to the notice of five members of the show who put him in "The Passing Show." Now "Hook" won't have to look for another job for five years as he has received a Shubert contract for that length of time.

PLAYED SIX SHOWS IN ONE DAY

The Fourth of July at the old Boston Museum stands out vividly in the ample recollection of William Seymour in Helen Hayes' support at the Wilbur Theatre. For on that day there were six performances with full pay for each, and while the experience was exacting, the play selected was a familiar farce and the actor nearly doubled his week's salary. The first performance was given at 11 o'clock in the morning, and the others followed at two-hour intervals. The rush of out-of-town visitors made the scheme profitable, as the Museum company, with William Warren and Mrs. Vincent, was the pride of New England and was as much of a magnet as the fireworks in the evening.

William Seymour

Mr. Seymour recalls that L. R. Shrevell was attracted by the money possibilities of the holiday in one season and elected to take part. He was not "up" in the farce chosen, however, and had to study fervently in all the brief intervals which the rest of the company utilized for a little free breathing. He was a prosperous but tired actor after six shows.

Bebe Daniels Can Weep on Short Notice

"What do stage think about when they cry?" asked a visitor at the Paramount studios recently after watching Bebe Daniels go through a tearful scene of "The Glimpses of the Moon," which will come to the Loew's Orpheum next week. When the question was put to Miss Daniels she replied: "I think of the scene I am playing and make up poetry of my own. Perhaps it's because the poetry is so bad that I cry. Music helps me, too, but I must have something with a sad motive, and I prefer just a violin." It takes Miss Daniels about ten minutes to work herself into a good cry, and after the scene it takes as much time for her to get over it. There is no such thing as glycerine tears in her repertoire.

Miss Spencer Has Hard Time With Money

"I see that Uncle Sam is going to call in the two-dollar bill. That's a fine idea. I hope they stay called in and never come out again. They have gotten me into enough arguments to settle a national question." So speaks Helen Spencer, who is featured in "Step On It," at the Gayety Theatre next week. "Why, I was short-changed four times in one week in New York on two-dollar bills, getting back change for only one dollar. The next time I was ready. I had taken the number of the bill and made a note of it. A clerk in a small store gave me back change for one dollar. When he stuck to it I finally called for the proprietor. I told him that my two-dollar bill was in the cash drawer and I could prove it. I took out my memorandum paper, with the number of the bill on it, and read the numbers to him. When he saw they corresponded to the top two-dollar bill in the drawer he gave me back my dollar. He could see that I was right and the clerk was wrong—or dishonest.

"But that's too much trouble to take with every two-spot you get."

Mildred Keats, one of the fairest principals of Al Jolson's company, owns a ninety acre farm in West Toledo, Ohio. Vera Bayles Cole of the same company is the possessor of a seventy acre farm near Jamaica, Long Island.

Moscow Art Will Supply Life to May Drama

Interest in the coming engagement of the Moscow Art Theatre, as reflected by advance calls for seats, gives every assurance that Morris Gest's band of Russian artists will repeat here the success that attended the efforts of the company in New York. Mr. Gest will deliver his imported artists to the Majestic Theatre for a two-weeks' engagement beginning Monday, May 7.

The repertoire for the Boston engagement will be as follows: "Tsar Fyodor Ivanovitch," by Count Alexei Tolstoi, Monday evening, May 7, Tuesday afternoon and evening, May 8. Wednesday evening, May 9, Thursday afternoon and evening, May 10. "The Lower Depths," by Maxim Gorky, Friday evening, May 11, Saturday afternoon and evening, May 12, Monday evening, May 14, Tuesday afternoon and evening, May 15. "The Cherry Orchard," by Anton Tchekhoff, Wednesday evening, May 16, Thursday afternoon and evening, May 17. "The Three Sisters" by Anton Tchekhoff, Friday evening, May 18, Saturday afternoon and evening, May 19.

Many Stage Stars to Play in Actors' Fund Show

The annual Actors' Fund Benefit this year will be held at the Colonial Theatre Friday afternoon, April 27. As has been the custom in past years, the bill will include the appearance of stars and attractions from all local theatres in addition to special features and artists which Daniel Frohman, president of the fund, will send from New York. With such a wealth of theatrical material from which to draw that week it is expected that this year's performance will be one of the greatest entertainments ever offered. Seats for the performance are now on sale at the Colonial box office.

AIDED BY EXPERTS

The annual musical comedy production of The Hasty Pudding Club of Harvard this Spring will have the benefit of expert professional coaching at the hands of Laurence Schwab. Sammy Lee and Lou Silvers, who have arrived from New York to assist in staging the University show. Laurence Schwab, who is a Harvard alumnus, is coproducer of "The Gingham Girl," a New York musical comedy success. He will assist in the direction of the book. Sammy Lee, who staged the dances in "The Gingham Girl," will arrange the song and dance numbers of the college show.

Mischa Elman, the violinist, in his last concert of the season in Symphony Hall on Sunday afternoon, April 22, will be heard in Nardini's Sonata in D major, Mendelssohn's Concerto, and shorter numbers by Mozart, Boccherini, Chopin, Brahms, Elman and Sarasate.

TICK BIRD IS FRIEND OF RHINO

Behold the little tick bird; it neither sows nor gathers into barns, but it does reap. For of the creatures of the wild there is none so useful or less humbly arrayed as one of these. It is a friend of nearly all the wild animals in its native habitat, which happens to be in Africa.

In Martin Johnson's picture, "African Wild Animal Hunt," now at the Park Theatre, the little tick birds are seen in great numbers. On the timid giraffes they may be seen clinging on various parts of the animal, reaping as their share of service the bothersome ticks that infest every furred animal of that region. They are tolerated as the kindliest of friends and roam at will with never a fear of molestation.

To the rhinoceros the birds are more than relieving agents. They are protectors because this thick-hided beast is notoriously short of sight. But the tick birds are blessed with good sight, and at the first sign of danger they flutter about with little cries and then the rhino is apprised. Many a victim of the rhino's terrible horned snout may credit his fate to the humble little tick bird.

The Bennett Sisters, two Boston girls, now appearing with Al Jolson in "Bombo," are to blossom forth as musical comedy stars next season. They have completed the book and lyrics of a two act musical comedy called "Two Little Maids."

ONE SHOT IN MOONSHINE FARM SIEGE

'Red' Stickers Cause May Day Police Order

SPARKS

Woe and envy hang heavy upon the hearts of the Brotherhood of Sparks. These are the tired business men whose eyes glaze, whose hearts pound, whose muscles tremble whenever they hear the clang of a fire engine. Officially they have banded themselves together in an organization called Box 52 Associates. Box 52, at Summer and Lincoln streets, is where the first alarm for the Boston fire of 1872 was rung.

Unofficially they are just sparks. Their number is legion. Their thralldom is complete and abject. The toper may some day free himself from the slavery of alcohol; the hoppie can conquer his craving for narcotics; even the golf fiend may overcome his mania for the links. But a Spark is incurable.

The 52 Associates number among their membership several bankers and brokers, lawyers, insurance men, telegraph and telephone officials, builders, trustees of large estates and newspaper men. In some manner or another, each of these Sparks has come into possession of a fire badge. That's the insignia of the clan. The members value it more than a soldier values his Croix de Guerre.

Many Seek Honor as Chief Spark

For years these Sparks have talked with awed whispers about the honor that would some day be conferred upon one of their number—the awarding of a gold fire department badge, which would stamp the lucky wearer as the Chief Spark of Boston. J. J. M. Fairbank, president of the Box 52 Associates, was regarded as being most eligible for the Gold Badge by virtue of his office. The strongest rival he had was one Benjamin M. Ellis, a Spark attached to Engine Co. No. 4 on Bulfinch street. Ben based his claim on a record of not having missed a single alarm in 123 days running.

But there issued a wail of protest from Rescue Co. No. 1, whose Spark is Francis H. McAllister. He claims to be the only Spark in Boston who ever attended a fire attired in a full dress suit and silk topper. And another from George Whitney, who haunts Engine Co. No. 19, in Norfolk street. He points to the fact that in his home he has the same equipment of any fire station in the city. As soon as the gong sounds he bounds out of bed and usually gets to the fire station in time to climb aboard.

Then there's Frank Orcutt, a prominent silk manufacturer, to whom nothing is of less consequence than silk. He has thrown silk to the winds and of late has practically lived at Engine Company No. 6 on Leverett street. He claims to be the champion hose kink straightener in Greater Boston, and his bed and wardrobe in the engine house are mute testimony to his devotion. Stanwood Miller of the Miller Piano Company concedes that Orcutt has it on him in the matter of hose-kink-straightener-out, but when it comes to buckling a section to a fire hydrant he takes off his hat to no Spark.

He Gets Alarms From 4 Cities

Louis Rosa of Newton wants all aspirants to know that his home is connected with the fire alarm systems of four cities, Newton, Waltham, Watertown and Boston. There are evenings when Rosa, listening to one alarm, is beguiled by three others and frequently braves apoplexy trying to make up his mind.

Hope springs eternal in the hearts of all these and many more. Now, it is ashes in their respective breasts.

For the Gold Badge has been awarded to Father Dennis J. Lynch of St. Leo's Church in Dorchester, official spark of the Fort Hill square fire station.

Fire Commissioner Theodore A. Glynn made the presentation to Father Dennis, who has for years attended all the fires, assisted in the work, given cigarettes and sandwiches to the men, rendered first aid to injured firemen and spiritual comfort to those who were mortally injured.

Only two other men in Boston have the Gold Badge. One is the fire commissioner, the other the fire chief. Father Dennis is the only civilian who boasts the high honor.

He is therefore automatically entitled to the distinction of being known as the Chief Spark of Greater Boston.

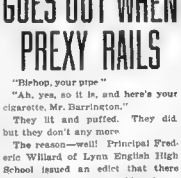
BISHOP'S PIPE GOES OUT WHEN PREXY RAILS

"Bishop, your pipe"

"Ah, yes, so it is, and here's your cigarette, Mr. Barrington."

They lit and puffed. They did but they don't any more

The reason—well! Principal Frederic Willard of Lynn English High School issued an edict that there should be no more smoking in or about the school.



Lester Leach

Charles Leader

Therefore this little scene in Act I of the junior class play, "Honor Bright," just had to be eliminated.

Principal Willard jumped from his seat, jumped right up. He almost ran back stage. A heated argument is said to have ensued, with the arguing on the part of the principal.

In the second and third acts Mr Barrington and the Bishop merely talked of smoking.

HAVERHILL MOTHER SEEKS MISSING SON

Haverhill, April 14.—Mrs. Margaret Williams today appealed to the police to help find her son, Anthony Chesley, twenty-two years old, who disappeared from the home of his aunt, Mrs. Eva Sinkiavich, in Worcester last August. The missing youth had been in poor health since twelve years of age and had been under treatment at Retreat Hospital, Worcester, prior to his departure.

ONE SHOT IN RUM SIEGE

Giant, Barricaded In His Farmhouse, Holds Raiders Off With Weapon

Athol, April 14.—For five hours George Whittemore, giant moonshiner, armed with a murderous shotgun, barricaded in his lonely farmhouse, at Royalston, fought off an attacking party of police and special officers until early today.

One man was dangerously wounded by Whittemore and several others narrowly escaped the whistling lead from the big bore gun. The front and sides of the dwelling were pierced by rifle and pistol bullets. The police by an organized rush broke in and captured him.

DRIVER NEAR DEATH

Arthur Serre, a taxicab driver who was pressed into service to take a raiding party of officers to the farm, is lying dangerously wounded in the Athol Hospital.

Patrolmen MacInerny, Harrigan and Grimes commandeered Serre taxicab and commanded him to drive to Whittemore's farm, one mile from Athol Centre. Arriving at the farm, the car halted in the front yard, while the police, armed with a search warrant, went to the front entrance and knocked for admittance.

Whittemore flung the door open and, without a word, fired both barrels of a double-barreled shotgun. The first shot tore a hole in the rear of the taxicab and wounded Steer in the back. The second shot ripped the tire from a rear wheel

Before the raiding officers could draw their revolvers the door was slammed shut.

Harrigan took Steer to Athol Hospital, where buckshot was removed and summoned aid. Deputy Sheriff Goddard, additional members of the police force, and several special officers rushed to the Whittemore farm and threw a cordon about the house where Whittemore still held the two policemen at bay.

Summoned by Chief Burnham of the Royalston police, Chief of Police Patrick J. Murphy of the Athol police, accompanied by two patrolmen, went to the assistance of the attacking party of police. These three were the ones who rushed the house and captured Whittemore.

Sufficient evidence was found on the premises to convict Whittemore on a liquor charge and conducting a liquor nuisance, it was said. He was lodged in the Athol police station

No one other than Steer, the taxicab driver, was wounded during the dastardly firing that marked the five hour siege.

Whittemore lives alone on his small farm, where, according to Athol police, he has long been suspected of making and dispensing moonshine

PRINTERS' PARTY ON TRIP TO BERMUDA

Members of the Boston Club of Printing House Craftsmen, their families and friends, numbering in all 350 persons, sailed today for Bermuda on the Furness liner Fort Hamilton, to be gone a week. The party will remain on the ship during its stay in Bermuda. Joe Dallas, known to every printer from Eastport to San Diego, is managing the excursion.

2 DEAD, 2 HURT, IN GERMAN AIRPLANE

Berlin, April 14 (By International News Service)—The pilot and a Stoffin official were killed and two other men seriously injured when an airplane fell during the ceremonies at the opening of the Tempelhoefer air port today.

LYNN GIRL HAS ROMANCE OF CINDER PATH

John G. Tagney, Geraldine Turner.

The engagement of Miss Geraldine Turner, junior in Lynn Classical High School, and John G. Tagney of Lynn, sophomore at Dartmouth College, is announced, and thereby Dan Cupid scores a victory for himself on the running track.

Miss Turner, daughter of Gerald W. Turner of No. 24 Burrill avenue, Lynn, met Tagney four years ago at a track meet in which Tagney then on the Classical High track team, was competing.

The romance begun, their friends say, with that first acquaintance.

Tagney was graduated from Lynn Classical in 1921. He is prominent in track activities at Dartmouth

Miss Turner is member of the S. O. S. Club of her school and is active in the Junior Everyday Club of Lynn First Universalist Church.

The engagement was announced at a shower tendered Miss Turner at her parents' home. The couple expect to be married in the Fall.

Strike of Models Grows; Fostered by Paris "Reds"

Paris, April 14.—The streets of the fashionable shopping centres were crowded with the striking employes of the millinery and dressmaking establishments, thus giving American tourists a chance to see midinettes and models celebrated for their beauty.

They are wearing their own clothes rather than those of the shops. Gendarmes are on patrol to prevent demonstrations.

The strike is spreading, encouraged by Communists, it is said, although it has not yet reached the proportions of that of 1919, when 70,000 garment employes quit work.

FILIBUSTER ENDS R. I. SENATE

Democrats Talk All Night and Crowds Stay Until Adjournment Today

Providence, April 14.—The Rhode Island Senate adjourned at 7.42 today after an all-night session.

This ended the eighth week of the Democratic filibuster.

Crowds thronged the capitol as more than 200 automobiles were parked nearby Spectators remained through the night

The Democrats spoke for two hours each and were prepared to hold the floor until this afternoon.

The filibuster began because of the failure of the committee on special legislation to report out several distinctly Democratic measures, chief of which is the forty-eight hour bill.

Other bills pertain to the abolition of the property qualification for voters, the change of senatorial representation to be based on population, repeal of the Sherwood prohibition enforcement act and new corrupt practices act

Directing the Democrats were Senators McGrane of Providence, Barry of Central Falls and Quinn of West Warwick

The Senate will convene again Tuesday. The filibuster will resume then. The Democrats are prepared to carry on indefinitely. Thus far the Republicans have not shown any indication of weakening

Senator Sanderson, Republican, tried to get the appropriation bill before the Senate, but the Democrats opened fire and he was unsuccessful.

The Republicans are getting desperate, for the persistent refusal of the Democrats to consider the budget is hampering the heads of the various State departments, all of which are seeking funds.

One of the chief features of the filibuster was the reading of a 325-page report by Senator Barry. Senator McGrane took two hours to discuss the accuracy of the Senate record of the day previous.

ASKS LAW TO SAVE BANK STOCK TAX

Attorney-General Jay R. Benton, in a lengthy opinion rendered to the House today in accordance with an order passed several weeks ago, recommends that the General Court enact legislation to ratify and confirm the taxes levied upon stockholders in national banks, to the extent that they exceed the amount permitted by the Federal laws, prior to an amendment of the Federal statutes which the Supreme Court of the United States has held did not give the States authority to tax national bank stock.

Under the decision of the Supreme Court, the Commonwealth of Massachusetts is liable to return about $13,000,000 in taxes paid by national bank stockholders, unless legislation is enacted to avert this

Raises Wages of 600

Nashua, N. H., April 14.—Notices were posted by the Nashua Gummed and Coated Paper Company today of a wage increase of 10 per cent., effective April 23, for its 600 employes.

American Once More Leads With Big News First

Again the Boston American leads with the big news.

The American also gave New England the first news of the alleged army feud revealed in the killing of Private Ralph H. Nordstrom of the 13th United States Infantry at Fort Revere, with the first report of the Army Board of Inquiry, which recommended that Private Edmund Rideout, the sentry who fired the shots, be held for manslaughter.

The American also led with the first news of the marriage abroad of Miss Mathilde McCormick and Max Oser, Swiss riding master.

If you want the news while it is news you must read the Boston American—three cents and worth it.

DAISY DRIVE TO NET $50,000 TO LEGION FUND

All records for Daisy drives will be smashed this year, if the general public maintains today the spirit of generous giving which marked the sales of the American Legion's welfare fund appeal yesterday.

Squads of Daisy Drivers were on the streets early again today and hustling with renewed enthusiasm to eclipse the work of the opening day The All-Dorchester Post, of which Christopher Halligan is commander, is far in the lead in the volume of sales.

The original quota for this post was 25,000. It was increased by 3,000 twice yesterday. Early today another 3,000 was taken and Commander Halligan served notice that his workers would be back for more. He says they will not be satisfied with a record of less than 50,000.

HOOK GIRLS AID DRIVE.

Roxbury, South End, Back Bay, Newton and Everett Posts are running neck and neck in the selling contest. Telephone girls and 20 girls from the clerical department of the John Hancock Insurance Company are vieing for supremacy in street sales for teams of voluntary Daisy Drivers. Up to the present they are having a pretty close race

Boy Scouts, with an increased soliciting force, appeared upon the scene today, determined to extend the scope and intensify the spirit of their activity

EXPECT TO RAISE $50,000.

This noon it was the belief of Legion officials that the entire supply of 750,000 daisies would be sold and the desired $50,000 raised for the welfare fund

"The response by check from the well-to-do has been scant in comparison with other years," said Dr. Eugene J. McCarthy, chairman of the committee in charge of the drive and the fund, "but that of the every-day public, the man and woman in the street, has been tremendous. The fellow and the girl with the quarter and the heart are showing up in grand style. They're there, all right."

State headquarters of the Legion will close at 5:30 o'clock this evening and no more daisies can be secured by workers after that time except from local posts. The Back Bay post bespeaks for its canvassers in the big downtown hotels tonight, during the closing hours of the drive a friendly reception from the patrons.

WARNS WOMAN FREED IN LIQUOR CASE

The failure of the government to produce a principal witness led to the acquittal of a liquor charge against Freida Gunn of Oneida street, South End, today, by Federal Commissioner Hayes. The man supposed to have purchased a small quantity of "booch," at the woman's house, failed to appear and the commissioner dropped the charge. Commissioner Hayes, however, warned her against violating the liquor laws.

RADICAL OUTBREAKS FEARED

Mysterious Posters With Letters "T. W. T." Stir Local Officials Into Action

Warning of possible Red outrages on May 1 as a result of threatening "stickers" discovered posted throughout the city was obtained in orders issued by Superintendent of Police Michael H. Crowley today.

The orders, sent to all police stations and the Bureau of Criminal Investigation, called for the immediate arrest of all persons found to have the circulars in their possession.

Two Dorchester boys arrested by a patrolman, said they had been hired by a man, evidently a foreigner, to paste the stickers on billboards, poles and fences, for which they received 25 cents each. The boys could not furnish a reliable description of the man.

The police were instructed to watch all suspicious appearing persons carrying bundles, packages and suitcases which might contain explosives. The letters "T. W. T." Superintendent Crowley pointed out, may refer to something scheduled of a destructive nature or may be a message to members of some secret organization either to congregate or be on the lookout.

WARRANTS REFUSED FOR HUB FURRIERS

Judge Lourie in Municipal Court today refused a warrant for arrest of David Graff and Harold Seidenberg, Boylston street furriers, who were charged with intent to defraud an insurance company.

Between December 16 and 18, the police were informed, entrance was effected in one fur store at No. 382 Boylston street, and $3,000 worth of furs stolen. Inspectors Flinn and Flaherty made an investigation which resulted in the action of the insurance authorities. District Attorney O'Brien presented the evidence and Attorney William Flaherty appeared for the defendants Judge Lourie said the government had not substantiated the case.

LOUIS SWIG DEMANDS $150,000 AS COUNSEL

Louis Swig of Taunton, son of Simon Swig, filed a petition today in the Supreme Court asking for $150,000 for legal services rendered to the Tremont Trust Company, which in February, 1921, was taken over by Bank Commissioner Allen.

He alleges he was retained as chief legal adviser in 1914 and that in 1917 it was agreed he was to devote his entire time and services to the bank's interests. He claims to have received only $5,000 for his services and asks for $150,000 with interest.

LIGHTER ASHORE AT PLYMOUTH

U. S. navy lighter No. 78 went ashore today three miles south of Manomet Point on the South Shore, near Plymouth. There is no one aboard the lighter, which is reported in danger of breaking up. The lighter, a bargelike craft used for carrying heavy cargo, was in tow of a U. S. navy tug Mohave, but broke away from its tow.

FALL OF MULDOON LESSON TO OTHER CZARS OF SPORT

BOXERS NO DIFFERENT THAN OTHER ATHLETES

By JOHN B. GILLOOLY.
Sporting Editor.

J. R. Gilooly

William Muldoon, self appointed Czar of boxing in New York, Boston, Detroit, Philadelphia and other large cities where the ring game is tolerated, is on his way out. Mr Muldoon tried hard to make himself bigger than the boxing sport, but he failed to measure up even though all inflated with his own importance.

The fall of Muldoon from his lofty perch should prove an object lesson to many others who are trying to set themselves up as little gods in the athletic world.

Mr Muldoon, as New York commissioner, ruled the boxing game with an iron hand. His word was law—whether right or wrong. Champions were dethroned and other less worthy performers were made title holders over night. The poor pug who ran afoul of Muldoon rulings was all through.

Decisions approved in New York were sent to other cities and these were supposed to be final until it began to appear that nothing was right unless approved by the Gotham commissioner.

Muldoon did much for the ring sport, however, but he tried to do too much and overdid it.

There is no one man who is bigger than the sport in which he is interested

Big League Baseball Gets Under Way Tuesday

Big league baseball will get under way next Tuesday, with the Braves battling the New York Giants. The Wigwam stars, under the able leadership of the great Christy Mathewson and Fred Mitchell, who was the real noise when the Boston boys whitewashed the Athletics in their 1914 flag series, look like a real fighting club

Boston can stand a pennant winning team, and with the support of the fans there is no reason in the world why the Hub cannot again take the lead as the home of the great National Pastime

Claude Davidson Putting Twilight Leaguers Over

Claude Davidson, who put the light into Twilight League baseball, has a man's sized job on his hands in the handling of twelve clubs which comprise his organization for 1923, but the banker, coach and diamond star seems well able to handle the situation.

Davidson's latest stunt and one which has won much favor in baseball circles, was the drafting of a schedule—big league style, too—which would be a credit to the major league date makers.

If the clubs follow the pace set by their leader, Mr. Mathewson and Mr. Frazee will have good cause to worry.

BOXING AND WRESTLING

By JACK CONWAY.

Nine thousand persons witnessed the finals of the national amateur boxing championships at the Boston Arena on Tuesday night. Seven thousand persons were in attendance at the trial on Monday evening, a total attendance of 16,000 persons. More than $18,000 was paid in at the box office

Jack Conway

This mighty outpouring of fans proves the popularity of amateur boxing. It shows that the public is behind the almost-pure sport

It is, therefore, up to the powers that control amateur boxing to take steps to properly safeguard the game One of the best ways to do this is by securing a better grade of officials than those who directed affairs at the recent championship meeting.

The majority of the decisions in the title bouts were proper. There were, however, several weird findings, which failed to make a hit with the fans. It is a mystery how the judges arrived at their verdicts.

Certain gentlemen are allowed to act as judges at amateur boxing shows because they have a burning desire to bask in the limelight. They are overcome by an ambition to be sportsmen. They seem to think that one of the chief qualifications of a sportsman is to act in some capacity as an official at box'ng shows.

They are usually appointed as judges, and then begin scoring points by the Chinese system. The result is that youngsters who win hard gruelling battles by skill, aggressiveness, punching power, brains and courage, are deprived of the victories to which they are entitled.

Bill Prout, the energetic young man who is directing the affairs of the A. A. U., is not likely to tolerate the present unsatisfactory conditions. We feel confident he will rectify affairs now that they have been called to his attention.

George Calza, Italian champion, is still the Great Unbeaten as a result of his ability at rough house tactics. After Calza had been decisively outpointed by George Kotsonaros, Greek champion, for more than two hours at the Boston Arena, the Italian title holder lifted his opponent in the air and hurled him over the ropes and clean out of the ring. It was fortunate for Kotsonaros that he was not injured more than he was by this twelve-foot toss

The place to wrestle is within the ring. We think that a grappler who tosses his opponent over the ropes and causes him to suffer an injury should be disqualified. It would be a difficult task to convince those who saw Calza wreck Kotsonaros' chances that the Greek would not have won if it had not been for the accident.

The Armory A. A. apparently does not believe in discriminating against high class negro boxers It has Battling McCreary and George Robinson matched to be bill for the New England light-heavyweight championship in a ten-round bout at the Grand Opera House next Tuesday night. Robinson recently defeated Lee Anderson while Mc Creary won over Jack Taylor. You will realize why Robinson and McCreary are avoided by some of our so-called champions if you journey to the Grand Opera House on Tuesday night.

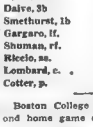
Boston College will play its second home game of the season this afternoon, at Alumni Field, against the nine from Northeastern College. The battle between the Eagles and the Engineers should furnish nine innings of live ball. Northeastern made a good showing against Tufts and are anxious to take revenge on the Eagles because of the defeat suffered from the Brown and Blue



Bill Vargus will hurl for Boston. This able moundsman is in the best of condition. He should be difficult to hit with his speedy assortment of curves.

Unless Northeastern proves exceptionally strong, Coach Henrik sen will probably take this opportunity to try out Andy Carroll, the former Dedham High twirler. It is possible that McCreary also will be given a chance in the box.

Big Ed Phillips will catch. With Ed behind the plate, the Eagle nine will have a man capable, by his speed and accuracy, of killing off Engineers ambitions enough to attempt stealing. Ed will improve the Eagle batting strength.

Gus Whelan, again in good graces with the faculty, will cover first base. This will be Whelan's first game of the season, but he did fine work in practice games.

Boston will have a smoother working team this afternoon than it had on Wednesday. Against Rhode Island the play was ragged Coach Henrikasen has spent the last two days in correcting the faults of the infield and it should prove efficient against the Engineers.

BROWNE & NICHOLS, WINS FROM BELMONT

A three bagger by Whiting in the first inning with the bases filled sent Browne & Nichols into a lead that Belmont High was unable to overcome in the game on Nichols Field diamond. Browne & Nichols won, 13 to 10.

Connell Fans Ten

Commerce defeated South Boston, 5 to 3, in the baseball game at North Brighton. Connell struck out ten South Boston batters.

Fight Results

Exterminator Faces Classy Field in the Opening Day Feature Race at Havre de Grace

By GUS DALY

Exterminator on next Monday afternoon will try and duplicate his feat of last year, that of winning the Hartford Handicap of $5,000 at Havre De Grace's opening day of the sport. The game gelding will have the best field of the season to keep him company. Fair Phantom, Champlain, Setting Sun, the Bowie Handicap winner; Sailing B., General Thatcher, Soggarth Aroon, Rockminster, the great four-year-old, and the $25,000 Lucky Hour, are just a few of a field of fifteen reasonably sure to take the word.

Some of the prominent stables that will race at Havre De Grace that were not at Bowie will be Ral Parr, J. S. Cosden, Willis Sharpe Kilmer, Samuel Riddle, William L. Oliver and Walter M. Jeffords.

The two-year-olds in the Parr stable are nearer racing condition than any of that age at the course.

They say now that Sally's Alley, last year's Futurity winner and heavily played to win the year's Kentucky Classic, is ailing and will not be a starter in that event.

The directors of the Windsor Ontario Jockey Club have called off all of the scheduled race meetings for this year owing to the heavy taxation levied by the Ontario government in addition to a percentage deducted from the mutuels

Three prominent turfman and breeders past away during the past week. Capt. W. F. Cleo of Louisville, Ky., G. L. Backford of Texas, owner of Maximac, winner of the Bowie Handicap last Fall and Cateaby Woodford The latter, at one time, owned the great race horse, Star Shoot, which he sold to John E. Madden, and also maintained the Raceland Stud, and was for several years president of the Kentucky Racing Association.

C. B. Irwin,	$49,036
S. N. Holman,	$12,514;
$11,200;
Jas. Crane,	$10,400,
Cain,	$10,086.

J. H. L. W. Daniel, $19,875; W. Walker, Southland Stables, $10,754; and W. M.

Gus Daly.

For consistency, Ben E. Chapman's eleven-year-old gelding Mountain Rose II. has the equine family lashed to the mast. This old fellow has started three times at Bowie and has looked the judges first in the eye on each occasion. For a horse of his years, we doubt whether this feat has ever been duplicated.

James "Jim" Arthur, who has developed so many saddle stars in the past, including "Chick" Lang, believes he has in Alfred Abel, his latest sensation, the making of a great jockey. "Young" Abel recently piloted five winners in one afternoon at Bowie.

Emil Herts, who handles many thousands of wagers on the Kentucky Derby in the future book, reports that there have been more, and bigger, commissions on different horses this year than ever before.

The fastest Ken ucky Derby trial to date is credited to Prince K., a mile in 1.42 2-5

The great Whiskaway, for which C. W. Clark was reported to have paid $150,000 last year, is showing superb form in his workouts at Lexington, Ky.

Miss Joy considered second only to Morvich, in her two-year-old form has been bred to Sir Barton and will not train for the races this year

PADGETT SIGNS FOR GO WITH SHADE

Cowboy Padgett, sensational Kansas City welterweight, has been matched to battle Dave Shade of California in the feature bout of ten rounds at the opening show of the Arena A. C. at the Boston Arena on a week from Monday night Padgett has come to the front at a fast clip and he is today rated as one of the chief contenders for Mickey Walker's title.

Dave Shade

"The only black mark on Padgett's record is a defeat at the hands of Jack Britton. The latter outpointed the cowboy fighter.

Dave Shade was not able to do so well against Padgett. He was lucky to secure a draw in a contest staged in the West.

K. O. Loughlin proved easy for Padgett. So did Morris Schlaefer, Warnie Smith, Johnny Griffiths, Harvey Long, Tommy Comiskey, Bud Logan, Billy Ryan and other candidates for fame in the welterweight division.

Padgett plans to come to Boston the first of next week and will do his training for the match in this city.

Eddie Shevlin will probably assist Padgett in his training. Shevlin, by the way, boxes Jimmy Jones at Pittsburgh on Monday night. He will then return to Boston and probably join Padgett's training camp.

It will be Shade's first bout of importance since his victory over George Ward in this city.

GOULD AND COX IN LYNN BOUT

Jack Murphy expects a capacity house at the Casino A. C., Lynn, on Monday night when Wildman Gould of New York and Jimmy Cox of Worcester meet in the feature bout.

Tommy Clayton

This match has all the earmarks of a whale of a fight.

Both boys are aggressive, two-fisted fighters who don't waste any time trying to stall, and the fans are sure to see plenty of action when they clash. Cox has appeared at Lynn several times, and is well liked by the patrons of the Casino.

Gould, aside from his clowning tactics, possesses real fighting ability and is capable of holding his own with the best welterweights in the country. He has defeated such boys as Johnny Herman, Allentown Dundee, Walter Butler, Young Goulo, Mike Paulson, Pickles Martin, Rocky Smith and many others.

Harvard School Goes In for Tennis on Record Scale

The Harvard Business School will take up tennis this year on one of the largest scales yet attempted by the graduates. Already enthusiasm for the sport has spread through the ranks, and a large number have signed for the championships which commenced April 2. None of the graduate players competed in this tournament, however, the idea being to stir up interest in the general sport of players. A team to represent the Business School will consist of men getting the ten ranking places in the singles.

Edward T. Herndon, of Pottsville, Pa., a second year man, is captain of the Business School team. He captained the Business singles team last Fall and carried off the honors in the university doubles with W. W. Ingraham, '25. He also won the university singles. Robert Bradley, of Toledo, Ohio, a member of the Harvard tennis team for three years, is another man among the ranking players.

Henry Stevens, of Portland, Ore., former captain of the University of California; William Bottimore, of Tazewell, Va., captain of the Emory and Henry College for two years, and Rex Thomason, of Berwyn, Ill., formerly captain of the Cornell College of Iowa team, are men who have got places on the select list.

American Again Leads the Way in Sport News

In the sports, as in the regular news, the American leads with the big news.

Keep ahead with the sport news—read the American.

VETERAN OF 71 IN MARATHON RUN

Peter Foley, seventy-one on April 17, is planning to run in the B. A. A. Marathon race on Patriots' Day.

The veteran has been training through the Winter by taking ten to twenty mile walks and runs out around Winchester, where he lives

"I am going to go over the course Sunday," Peter told the Boston American today. "If my time is good enough I will run, and if it isn't as good as I think it should be I will not start, but I will be there when the boys finish.

"I have been going better than ever in my life in my training, and I feel just as fit as a race horse. I have been eating up the miles. My wind is better than ever, and my strength is there The legs are standing up despite my three score and ten."

Peter Foley

Peter Foley is the marvel of sports. He started Marathon running when better than forty years of age as the result of a wager. He has run every year since. The Boston Athletic Association refuses to allow him to be a regular entry, for fear he will not stand up under the strain. They cannot stop him running independently.

Last year Peter finished strong, and he made better time than ever in his long career. He came in ahead of a score or so of the runners.

DISTRICT-ATTORNEY ACCUSED BY WIFE

Worcester, April 14—District Attorney Emerson W. Baker of Worcester county has been unfaithful to his marriage vows, according to an answer to Baker's divorce action filed by Boston attorneys for his wife, Charleen J. Baker, whom he has sued for divorce.

The district attorney in his suit alleged his wife was unfaithful to her marriage vows and he named Alvah H. Weaver of Lowell as corespondent. Weaver has retained counsel and will be represented at the trial which is expected to be the most sensational divorce action ever heard in Worcester county.

INTERNATIONAL SOCCER ON APRIL 19

By ART CURLEY.

The big international soccer match of the season will be staged at Killivan square on the afternoon of Patriots' Day, between the ancient rivals, Scotland and England.

Jimmy Whyte

Local fans look forward to this annual event and turn out in record breaking numbers to witness it. The representative teams are selected from clubs in the Boston and District Leagus by an International committee, and the players, in order to be eligible, must have been born in the country which they represent

Good players for the different positions are so plentiful that the committee had a tough time making their selections, but feel that they have picked two of the strongest and most evenly matched aggregations that ever represented Scotland and England, and the game is sure to be a thriller.

Scotland will be represented by Tommy McMasters, Boston Blues, goal; J. McGregor, Boston Blues, Billy Strachan, Roxbury, fullbacks; Jimmy White, Charlestown, Jimmy Grant, Clan Sutherland and Allan Cuthbert, Lynn Thistles, halfbacks; Tommy Underwood, Sutherland, Billy Rourke, Sutherland, Bob Smith Roxbury, Jimmy Doherty, Roxbury and Allan Wilson Sutherland, forwards; Dave Smith, Roxbury, D. Reid, Boston Blues, and Jimmy Milton, Sutherland, reserves. Jack Davison of Clan Stewart will be manager.

England team will be: St. Georges, goal: Haworth Charlestown, and Sid Sanson St. Georges, fullbacks, Fred Cundy, Lynn Gas Workers, St. Georges, and H Sanson St Georges, halfbacks; J. Roscoe, St. Georges, Salisbury, Roxbury, Ernie Nichols, Lynn Thistles, Johnson Lynn Thistles, and Billy Dunne, Lynn Thistles, forwards; Jimmy Caulfer Roxbury, Bob Sanson, St. Georges and White, St. Georges reserves. J. Whitehouse manager.

Jimmy Whyte, the sterling right-half of the Charlestown team, who had been on a visit to his home in Scotland for the few months, will be back in Boston Monday.

Thomas B. White of Allston has been selected to handle the whistle with two local referees as linesmen

JUDGE LANDIS HERE, AT BRAVES OPENING

Chicago, April 14.—Commissioner Kennesaw M. Landis, head of organized baseball, will leave Chicago today to open the baseball season in Boston because of his friendship and admiration for Christy Mathewson

The commissioner will go to Boston to assist the Braves to start their season Tuesday, and then he will preside over the dedication of the Yankee stadium Wednesday.

SCHOOLBOYS

Great City of Boston Should Have Stadium for Schoolboys

By FRED C. LANE

It seems rather strange that the great city of Boston can't furnish the young athletes of the high schools with any up to date and adequate Stadium to hold big athletic meets and stage football and baseball championships.

Here it is early Spring and the youngsters are preparing for the annual outdoor athletic meet and relay carnival. This event is too big to be staged on any local playground and Physical Director Phillip J. O'Brien, and Thomas H. Crowley and Joseph Reynolds as superintendents under Director Young, schoolboys will have more chance to develop athletic ability.

Fred C. Lane

Athletics cost the school department about $25,000 yearly for equipment for such as baseball, football and other sports. There are also twelve teacher coachers who receive $800 each and eight teacher managers who draw $150 a year each.

The physical department takes an interest in all the youngsters in the schools, even in the elementary branches. English High has thirty-four baseball teams besides the regular Light and Dark Blue nine. Outside of uniforms, the players enjoy all the pleasure of the older and more experienced ball players and no expense is spared.

The department of physical training has seventy districts and O'Brien, Crowley and Reynolds have a third of the above number of districts in their charge.

BRAVES ARRANGE BATTING ORDER FOR OPENING GAME

McNAMARA MAY START ASSAULT ON GIANTS

By NICK FLATLEY.

Washington, D. C. April 14.—The Braves are back in the big [illegible] going through the ultimate preliminary motions to fit them for a successful opening of the season at home Tuesday. They perform here today and tomorrow with the Senators, if the weather will let them; then trickle home to the real United States, as you would call it if you had been away as long as we have.

These Braves, we think, after watching them perform for the past five weeks, will be a whole lot better ball club than they were a year ago. They must be, you say, to keep out of the Eastern League. Right, the very first guess, but none the less and never the same, the club has pretty good prospects.

Even the hard-boiled umpires who have been watching the athletes perform every day see a lot of possibilities in the club, and the umpires are never wrong. They'll tell you that.

Tom Flatley

Seriously, there are quite a number of young men on the roster now who cannot but help things along greatly. Last Spring the team was a thoroughly veteran outfit. There wasn't a kid in the ranks who had a possible show of holding onto the varsity. There was plenty of class, spirit, but it evaporated when the injuries began to wreck the lineup.

Optimism of Youth Needed on Any Ball Club

The optimism of youth is needed on any man's ball club, except possibly a championship affair. The kids are present this year and in great part are responsible for a new and encouraging feeling of success.

Tim McNamara, who still sings college songs, will be one of the regular pitchers, and will probably hurl the opening game. That's quite an assignment for a baby shaft shooter, but Timothy has worlds of stuff, and is cooler than the past Winter has been. He acts like a veteran of many campaigns out there on the mound, and has the courage of a lion behind a calm and smiling demeanor.

Young Jocko Conlon Will Be in Lineup

Young Jocko Conlon will be in that lineup, too. He's another kid who hasn't emerged from the happy feeling collected during those gay college years. He will probably be in at second base, as Horace Ford, regularly parked there, is limped around with a charlie horse and must rest up until the animal disappears.

A third kid who seems fated to get the initial greetings from the wigwam fans is Bill Barwell, slugging outfielder, who has been acting for a week or more like a second edition of the more or less famous Babe Ruth. Bill will have his troubles chasing the onion around the stretches of the tribal year of it.

Injection of Youth and Ambition Means a Lot

This injection of youth and ambition mean a lot to the ball club. It gives it the air of hustle that pleases the gang, and it makes the old timers hustle for the breaks in emulation of the youthful prodigies.

A building club must be a young club, and you can call the Braves that at the present time. Except, Hennery Gowdy, Stuffy McInnis and Ray Powell, you couldn't call any of the regular hoary veterans.

And the three we have mentioned seem to roll along without letting the flitting years affect them in the slightest.

Stuffy Will Surprise the Boston Fans

Stuffy, we imagine, will surprise the Boston fans. He is scampering about in much more sprightly fashion than he has been for years, and he hasn't been bothered at all by his legs. For the past two years a bad runner handicapped the Gloucester chap. He never did much Spring training anyhow, and he usually worked too hard when he got in there.

Result, the charlie horses started popping, and though he never let them keep him out of the pastime, they surely slowed him up a lot. This Spring Stuffy did a lot of conditioning. He ran around the ball yard a lot. He worked out running the bases. He walked miles over golf courses. And he rounded gradually into very fine form without ever feeling a twitch in his bad prop. He should have a very good year of it.

WILLARD WILL BOX SUNDAY AFTERNOON

By BILLY McCARTHY

Excelsior Springs, Mo., April 14.—Despite the fact that his physician has forbidden Jess Willard to box until next week, even going to the point of removing the gloves from the gym, the former champion announced that he will resume boxing Sunday afternoon.

Willard a sudden determination to box Sunday, despite the orders from Dr. Baird, has occasioned disquiet ing talk.

Jess has never done gym work on Sunday, running on the road being his lone exercise for the day.

The announcement came from Willard after he had been advised that many fight fans of Kansas City, who are going to come here during the week, desired to see him do his training work, particularly boxing.

This information was passed to Jess, and when the big fellow declared himself, he was asked by both Manager Archer and Dr. Baird to change his arrangements, but to no avail.

Willard contends his arm is O. K., and he knows no reason why he should deprive himself of the boxing exercise. However, he did agree to wear a huge pad over the injured muscle.

The fact that Willard has been installed a two to one choice over Floyd Johnson does not ride well with many betting men hereabouts, who had hoped to get down healthy chunks on the big fellow at even money.

Walter M. Barringer, the Chicago sportsman, wired Archer asking if he desired to close the $10,000 bet, guaranteeing which they have posted $1,000 forfeit, at odds quoted out of New York. Archer wired back that they had agreed to close at the price that prevails at the ringside.

COAL DRIVERS TAKE RAISE; STRIKE OFF

The Coal Teamsters' Union voted to accept the $2 a week increase offered by the employers and called off the projected strike.

A wild uproar by those members favoring a strike threatened to disrupt the meeting at which the terms were accepted, but when it came to counting the votes an overwhelming majority declared in favor of industrial peace.

The 1,200 members of the union will receive $2 more a week, retroactive to April 1, and time and a half for overtime.

Free Tickets on Way to Braves' Opener

The history of Boneheads has received intensely valuable memorandum as the result of contributions sent in to the Boston American's Bonehead Contest. Incidentally, 150 of the winners are by this time receiving their tickets to the opening game of the Boston Braves.

The other 150 will get tickets to the Red Sox opening. These will be mailed a few days before the opener, in ample time to attend.

Today's winners:

W. S. KENNISTON, American Railway Express Company, Middleboro, Mass.:

"We had a motion picture as a crusade against vice, which was named 'Damaged Goods.' It played in the town hall and posters were up. A junk peddler drove up and wanted to know where he could buy the damaged goods claiming his price for second-hand goods was higher than any of the other junk dealers."

Mayor Curley

The other day the Boston American printed pictures of Governor Cox and Mayor Curley. Under the cut of Mayor Curley was printed the caption "Governor Cox." Under the cut of Governor Cox was printed the caption "Mayor Curley." This was a bone-head play on the part of some body in the composing room. It was run in only one edition and quickly corrected, but not before it had been detected by the eagle eyes of the following:

Governor Cox

W. J. MacWHINNEY, No. 4 Lambert street, Roxbury.

BONEHEAD BOX SCORE

Tickets previously won....213
Tickets won today..... 8
Total won to date. 221

WILLIAM ROBS, No. 103 Beacon street, Natick.

W. W. NORCROSS, JR., No. 29 Spruce street, Watertown.

All the above are hereby declared winners in the Bonehead Contest and will receive a ticket to the Red Sox opening. If we can find who pulled the boner in the composing he will get a ticket, too.

"A very fat woman in a very heavy fur coat weighed herself at the Milk street station the other day. The scale registered 310 pounds. She couldn't believe the evidence of her eyes, and finally an inspiration came to her. Of course it was her heavy fur coat that was responsible. She took the coat off, carefully draped it on her arm, got on the scale and dropped another penny. Again the scale registered 310 pounds. The woman muttered something about it being a shame to forge the scale out of order and beat it."

YALE NINE BEATEN BY THE NEW HAVENS

New Haven, April 14. — Yale lost the first game of the Elm City series to the New Haven Eastern Leaguers, 3 to 1.

New Haven returned from its Southern tour and showed rather ragged fielding, but its hitting and twirling gave it a slight edge over the collegians.

The second game of the series will be at Yale Field today, when George Weiss expects to have Chick Gagnon, former Holy Cross captain, at third to make his infield a quartet of college ex-captains.

RECORD HOLDER ENTERS THE MARATHON

Clarence H. DeMar, who won the B. A. A. Marathon run last year and incidentally established a new record of 2 hours 18 minutes and 57 1-5 second has entered again for the twenty-five-mile road race, which will be held next Thursday.

Clarence H. DeMar

DeMar's entry was received in the last batch, which increased the total number for the long distance grind, Patriots' Day, to sixty-eight.

The fact that DeMar has entered means that the Melrose boy feels good enough to break his own record. He will represent the Melrose Post, No. 90, of the American Legion.

There were thirteen in the last mail.

Among other late entries were: Manuel Concesion of Newton, who finished eighteenth last year; Delfino Portfolio, Cambridge; Eugene Fitzpatrick Blue Hill A. C., Natick, M. J. Lynch, Aloysuis Club, Washington, D. C.; Frank Martin, St. Christopher Club, New York, John B. Fenton, Boston; James P. Shannon, Canton, Martin Silva, Waltham; George Irons, St. Alphonsus A. The fourth annual dancing party of the Honey Girls, composed of young people of Greater Boston, will be given on Tuesday evening, April 7, in the Columbus Club, Pearl street, Dorchester.

FACULTY PUTS ART KIRLEY UNDER BAN

Art Kirley, one of the best ball players in collegiate ranks, is lost to Boston College for the rest of the season. The New England Intercollegiate 880 yard champion has fallen behind in his studies, and is therefore barred by the faculty ruling from representing the college in any athletic event. It is not likely that the Eagle flyer will run any more before next Fall.

PIERCEY GETS A CHANCE AGAINST ORIOLES

By CHARLES E. PARKER.

Baltimore, Md., April 14—Bill Piercey, Sox pitcher, who has yet to face foreign opposition this year, gets a chance to strut his stuff against the Orioles of Baltimore this afternoon, and both Bill and his boss are hoping he goes well.

One of the three or four worries catalogued under the dome of Frank Peerless Chance concerns the "low down" on his pitching staff, for, as the league opening draws closer and closer, he is certain in his opinions of only two of the eleven twirlers on the Sox roster.

Howard Ehmke, ex-Tiger, and Alec Ferguson, ex-Yankee, look good to the man who is handling the Harry Frazee Jamboree. Right now that pair is booked as One and Two on the Sox pitching list. But who is to be Three, and whether there are to be Four, Five and Six, who will develop from among the twirling talent on hand, constitutes a puzzle of the most baffling quality.

Had Jack Quinn survived the voyage North without injury Jack would have been the number three twirler. Jack sustained a busted bone in his tossing duke and his return to toil seems at least two weeks away.

Curt Looked Good Until He Was Bumped Thursday.

Curt Fullerton seemed the likely selection when Jack passed from the picture for Curt had made a very favorable impression through his six-hit triumph over Little Rock. But Curt, on his Thursday performance against Reading, negatived that impression, and was returned to the list of doubtful ones.

Today is Bill Piercy's turn to show; tomorrow George Murray gets his chance, and on Monday "Hy" Fawkes will be trotted forth.

That will leave southpaws Frank O'Doul and Dave Black, and northpaws Carl Stimson and Harry Grampp as the four not scheduled for a test before the league season gets under way. Of this quartet, Grampp can be counted out of the picture, for his youth and inexperience call for an early farming out to the minor leagues.

The remaining three have been slow in rounding into form—Stimson owing to illness while at Hot Springs, and O'Doul and Black because of stubborn muscle pains. Both Lefty and Dave have shown promise and boast sufficient minor, or major league experience to be figured as real possibilities.

Charles E. Parker

But today Manager Chance is sure of only two twirlers and because no team has gone very far in the right direction without at least three ball servers who could take their regular turns and win the majority of their games, the Red Sox boss has every right to look and voice a slight perturbation.

Injury to Jack Quinn Sorry Blow to Red Sox.

The sorriest blow suffered by the Red Sox camp when Jack Quinn was injured, for Jack always has been a great early season pitcher and although early season victories mean no more in the league standing column that do late season triumphs, they mean to the club that enjoys them constantly multiplying confidence in itself, and confidence in one's self means that later season victories will follow such earlier ones.

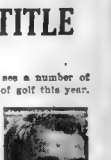
YOUNG STAR MAY LAND NATIONAL GOLF TITLE

By GENE SARAZEN
(World's Champion Golfer)

Unless I am greatly mistaken, I think you will see a number of young professionals making their mark in this game of golf this year.

I was fortunate enough to have won the National Open last year, and I wouldn't be at all surprised if some other boy who is nearly as young as I am wins this year. Those three great masters who have been supreme in this country for years—Walter Hagen, Jock Hutchison and Jim Barnes, will have to travel this year to withstand the rush of the younger generation.

As I write this I have Emil Loeffler in mind. There is a lad who has everything a champion needs—the shots, the gameness, stamina, tournament experience and a good head. I know Loeffler's game well, having played with him frequently, and I have often wondered why he has not won more tournaments than he has to date.



Gene Sarazen

Recently Emil was married. I think that will help him climb to the top. He has always been a sort of easy-going, care-free fellow, who never seemed to push himself along as hard as he might have. But I think he will bear watching this year.

Johnny Farrell is nearly ready to step out and win a big championship. And at Inwood Johnny should do very well, for he knows that course and plays it well.

I would advise Farrell to work a little harder on his game and try to eliminate the slack as much as possible by so doing. I may be wrong, but every time I have seen Johnny play I have got the impression he is a little loose on his iron shots.

Bill Mehlhorn's long game is no near perfection as it could be, but he still seems to be erratic around the greens. At least, that is the way his game appeared to me when last I saw him. And, if you expect to win a tournament, you've got to have your chips shot and your putter working well, else you'll finish nowhere. Bill will be dangerous this season.

So will Leo Diegel, who has improved his swing considerably since he almost won the Open at Toledo, three years ago. Leo has a peculiar style, but he gets there and is a wonderful player. In this respect he has it on most of us youngsters. If determination and a never say die spirit counts for anything, Leo will be one of the foremost contenders for the championship this Summer. Having checked his swing and, being in a position to use it frequently, Leo is scoring better now than he has ever done before.

Of course you've got to figure Bobby Jones as usual. He's sure to be good always. It is impossible to criticize his game in any way. He has all of the shots and then some.

There are several other youngsters who are coming along rapidly and who can be expected to step out soon. The trouble with most of them as I see it is that they are a bit slack in their swing.

Most of them I have talked with realize this and are working to shorten the stroke and to make it as compact as possible.

ROTARY CLUB SUPPORTS EVERETT CITY NINE

D. J. A. Brewin

One of the greatest boosters for Everett is Dr. John A. Brewin, at one time one of the leaders on the Boston College Athletic Association Board of Directors. Dr. Brewin believes in giving the people of Everett something to attract their attention in the city limits.

Realizing that the only way to keep the fans interested was to get home talent, Dr. Brewin set out to organize a first-class baseball team.

It didn't take long before a half hundred of the public-spirited citizens began to assist financially and otherwise, and a good sum of money was raised to organize a good ball nine.

It was suggested that should any profit come to the team such money would be put into a scholarship fund for him, gave the club and the officers his approval.

The next move was to get the team before the public. The best way, in the Doc's opinion, was to get his team into the Twilight League.

The privilege to use the high school grounds for the tam has been obtained.

Thomas Dorn

Lads in the Everett district will be given a chance in preference to for Everett youngsters to go to college.

The Mayor, Dr. Lester D. Chisholm, Among the Everett boys who are mentioned are Rufus Bond, Harry Hall, chosen as All-Scholastic hurler a year ago, and Ralph Hunt a pitcher.

'HOUSE OF ACTION' TO BE REOPENED

The Commercial Club will reopen the old "Home of Action" in Bowdoin square Friday night, April 27. This was announced last night by Colonel Bob McKirdy.

Its been many months since the Commercial Club conducted shows at the Bowdoin Square Club, but on account of the demand for new faces, it has been decided to reopen for the firm purpose of developing new talents. More boxers were developed at the Commercial Club in the old days than at any club in the city.

It is expected that many boys will be started at the club this year who will some day make their mark in the ring game. The reopening of the "House of Action" will prove popular with ring followers, who haven't forgotten the nights of long ago at the same club.

SEEKS CONTROL OF WRESTLING IN STATE

A bill to place wrestling under the control of the State Boxing Commission has been introduced in the House of Representatives by Representative William P. Canty of Jamaica Plain. It was referred to the committee on rules on the question of admission.

Canty asserts that many wrestling matches have been arranged in advance, and also quotes one of his constituents that racial discussion has been stirred up between Greeks and Italians by a group of promoters.

"I started to write to you about the trout I caught in the Frog Pond in Boston Common the other day, but I realized that the readers of the Liars' Contest are apt to

"One of the rooms in our house is rather dark and stuffy. There is only one window in it. For a long time I wondered how I could make it more cheerful. I finally hit on a plan. I got a burlap bag and stationed myself in the sunniest part of the yard. Opening the sack wide I let the sunlight get into it until it was full to bursting. I took the sack back to the room, opened it, and now the room's so sunny I have to keep the shade down on the outside to keep the neighbors from complaining at night."

H. B. Barton, No. 29 Pevarell street, Dorchester.

"I went out to Oak Grove [illegible] order to get a load of wood. The horse was hitched to the load with rawhide traces. The day, as you know, was very warm. Much to my surprise, upon arriving at my house, I found the load had not started. The traces had stretched the entire distance. I therefore fastened them to a tree. During the night the temperature dropped to zero, causing the traces to contract, which brought the load abruptly to the house."

Baseball Notes

Baseball manager says the trouble with his team is that the batters hit the first ball. It isn't hitting it that makes the trouble; it's missing it.

Medbury Says—

By John P. Medbury

IF you use rubber lumber you can build your house on a corner and then stretch it all the way up the block.

THE newsboy will throw your evening paper up against the front door and it will bounce over onto the neighbor's porch across the street.

THE only way you can be sure of getting you paper is to have it delivered to them.

YOUR living room wouldn't have to be very large because the more guests you had, the more the room would bulge.

IF they went out too fast the walls would be liable to snap back and hit him in the face.

RUBBER homes would have their advantages though. All you'd have to do would be to give a little jump and bounce from one room to another.

OF course you'd be liable to aim for the dining room and bounce into the kitchen.

THESE places have their disadvantages, too. One guy tied his dog to the front porch and the dog was so strong he stretched the house out past the gutters.

THEY had a big log fire in the fireplace and the gentleman had to take their collars off.

DURING the evening there was an earthquake and the house began to shimmy.

THE guests were dancing but they had to stop and start bouncing.

SOME dames bounced on to laps that had never held them before.

ONE single girl was thrown on to a newly married guy's knee. But he didn't care, he figured that all was fair in love and earthquakes.

THESE rubber houses are quite an invention but look out for enemies, they're liable to come around any night and blow your head up with a bicycle pump.

YOU MUST ADHERE TO THE RULES OF THE GAME.

Lots of persons are given to protesting against conditions and want to "kick" right out here when things do not go to suit them, but they do not go deep enough as to the cause of the trouble.

There are players of basketball and certain other sports which are settled on points by a referee.

When a referee does not please you the only way to get satisfaction is to choose another referee.

You may have to abide by the decisions of an unjust referee for a certain period, but while you have a right to object to any injustice he seems to mete out you need not make yourself obnoxious to all.

If there is anything which is disgusting, it is to see persons trying to relax in play spells and clawing and fighting instead of being real sports.

A real sportsman knows the rules of the game and adheres to his rules strictly, and the more strictly he plays the better the sportsmanship.

Of course if it is pugilistic stuff you are in for—but even so there are rules and edicts among the great fistic champions. Do not be a dog fighter or a cat howler.

The subject of alimony should never be discussed during the honeymoon.

His royal nibs, the boss, was trapped and lugged off to the opera again last night. I can tell by his inharmonious remarks and his scowl.

The two-gun man isn't in it with the two-eyed girl.

Miss D. is fond of declaring in a tragic way that her "life is her own," etc., etc. Goodness gracious! Who said it wasn't. Nobody wants it that I know of.

Most girls, when they get flowers, at once begin to dig around in the box to see if they've missed anything.

I understand that the faded Miss G., who wears the most conspicuous horn-rimmed glasses in the city and clothes that are a fright, also has a parrot. A dangerous confidant, I'll say.

We laugh at a kid who cries for red wagon—and then break our hearts wishing for a darling red motor.

I wonder what wise guy found out that "marriges were made in heaven."

This chatter about women taking men's jobs away from them makes me weary. I see too many birds loafing here and there who would run like a Marathoner if you offered them work.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

The Boston American will pay $1 for every letter published on "The most Embarrassing Moment in My Life." Address Embarrassing Moments, Boston American.

The most embarrassing moment of my life was when I lived next door to a varent house and happened to look out of my window I saw a flame rising. Thinking that the house was on fire, I called the fire department. All responded. To my surprise and embarrassment it was only a preacher's torch. A plumber was doing some repairs.

Smile at These

By Nat N. Dorfman

NEW York law proposes to give only one wife to a man and a lot of American husbands are hoping theirs is to be the one wife given to a Turk.

Nowadays every time a nervous business man hears a blowout he ducks under the desk for self-protection, thinking his wife or sweetheart is after him with a gun.

Heroes Who Go Unhonored

The infuriated individual who hurls the twenty nickels back at the subway change artist when he hands him a dollar bill and needs only one nickel to get into the subway.

Man in jail fifty years, pensioned by judge, runs a new story, but the sad feature of it is that his wife was waiting for him upon his release.

What Congressmen Think Of

How to get elected again.
When the session will end.
The movie he saw last night.
How his name will look in the Congressional Record.
How to get elected again.
What the ship subsidy means.
What on earth the tariff means.
When the session will end.

Warning Note

A lot of people waiting for the worm to turn fail to see the unfortunate turn, and so are afforded a first hand opportunity to study worms in their own habitat.

Phil Gets Sore

Scenic contenders never knew what soft jobs they had until they began serving sodas to a flock of women and children.

Since so many women have taken up smoking in public a lot of the pioneers have quit the prolonged cigarette advertising habit.

The South American countries have found a new way to get their names in the newspapers. They've discharged their press agents and are getting a lot of prosnective heavyweight contenders to fight in America.

SOME FOLKS THINK

That all beans are rolled from Boston.

That you can get an accident policy against insurance agents.

That only children like baby dolls.

HOROSCOPES

DRAWING today's forecast from the sidereal operations, it can be said with a moderate degree of security that those who seek the assistance of persons high in authority will not obtain greater favors than they had hoped for. The day is unpropitious for an application for a loan from one to whom money is still owing. It may be a good time to put forward a scheme calculated to harvest a fortune and it may not. The conjunction of the luminaries is unfavorable for the happy outcome of quarrels and disputes.

Refrain this day from driving your motor vehicles thirty miles an hour on the wrong side of the street. Those in authority are certain to interpose, and grief will assuredly follow, involving a painful separation from coin.

Wives and husbands should guard against bombarding the day with caustic remarks concerning each other's forbears. It would be well to pay the milk bill and the instalment on the player piano. Grocers and butchers should be treated with honeyed words and inharmony and contention over groceries owed avoided. On this day billionaires may do anything they like without fear of unfavorable outcomes. Others should beware of imitating these in luxury. A child born today may have the luck of going through life without being divorced.

THE ENEMIES OF WOMEN By BLASCO IBANEZ

Start Here Today This Engrossing Story of Life and Love from the Master Pen of One of the World's Greatest Novelists

By Vicente Blasco Ibanez,
Author of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" and Other Novels of World Renown

MICHAEL, in his silent enthusiasm, enumerated what had just been done for humanity by this great people, which shortly before had been considered utilitarian and selfish, and which now revealed itself as the most romantic and generous.

Lubimoff admired its enormous strength in victory. Never had any empire in the past reached such greatness—not even Rome.

In a Dilemma

The Prince realized for the last few months—since he gave up Villa Sirena—that Prince Michael Fedor Lubimoff had become an unfashionable personage. Perhaps, with the lapse of years, others would do as he was. History repeated itself. Times of peace and plenty inevitably produced men such as he had been. But at present humanity had been restored by grief and sacrifice, humanity was anxious to live, and longed for something new, without knowing exactly what, and was working to secure it.

Mitchael looked on himself with pity. What was he going to do? What could men like himself do for their fellow men?

Besides, he felt poor. For the first time he recalled with a certain satisfaction the heritage left him by Alicia. It was not worth anything at that moment, but who knew but what some day! . . . He dreamed that perhaps those Mexican mines might replace his lost fortune in Russia; and then . . .

He already had an occupation to fill his hours. He wanted to be a contemplator of life. He was glad to have been born in the most interesting of periods.

He looked at a gap on the horizon, between the Alps and the promontory of Monaco, where the sun had just gone down. Above the reddish expanse a star was shining with the brilliancy and luminous facets of a precious stone.

One of the many wounded soldiers at Monte Carlo

Lubimoff was thinking of the ancient fathers of poetry who sang about it 3,000 years ago. Homer called it Kalistos. Sometimes the morning star and at other times the evening star, Lucifer, Vesperus, or the "Shepherds' Star," it finally received the name of Venus, because of its shining whiteness, like that of a diamond on a woman's breast.

The Prince felt the sweet caress in his eyes as he gazed on the soft glow of the planet. Its name symbolized beauty and love. He imagined the people who inhabit that celestial point of light lost in space. They must be of a purer essence than ours, entirely free from a past of primitive animality —ethereal beings, like the angels of all religions.

Then he smiled bitterly.

Another Star

There was another star shining in the sky, more beautiful and larger than that one. It was blue instead of white, a soft blue; the color of poetry and dreams. It sparkled in the dark depths of space with the mysterious glow of the enormous bluish diamonds which Oriental monarchs place in their tiaras.

He slowly turned toward the square.

From all the cafes, restaurants and hotels, came the musical rise and fall of the enclosed violins. Behind the great windows, reddened by an inner light, he saw couples passing intertwined, following the rhythm of the music. They were dancing, dancing, dancing.

Youth did nothing else. Dancing was a sort of sacred rite, prohibited during the war; and people were all devoting themselves to dancing now, with the fervor of zealots finally celebrating the triumphs of their persecuted religion.

The nightmare of war had vanished; everything had been forgotten. For many people nothing remained to recall the conflict save the uniforms, more numerous than formerly.

Michael confined his meditation to this coast, always the domain of the blessed! For four long years war had turned Monaco upside down and filled it with darkness.

Imagination Ran Riot

His imagination ran up and down the gulfs and promontories. There was a cemetery on each.

The dead were innumerable. Were they all to rise together those who came to prolong their lives under the palm trees and the olive on the shores of the Violet Sea, would flee ghast.

But the aim of life was to live. Life is an endless Springtime, and covered everything it touched with the eager moss of pleasure, with the swiftly creeping ivy of dreams.

Lubimoff stopped in the middle of the square. It was beginning to grow dark. With one ear he heard the musical swing of a dance invented by the negroes of North America for the enjoyment of the whites; and with the other he heard other negro music, the South American tango.

Orchestras Playing

In the adjoining streets new orchestras were playing wherever there was a public place, cafe, hotel or restaurant—with a sign in English at the door to attract the heroes of the hour: Dancing.

He gazed at the mountain which formed a background for the square and watched over the graves on its slopes. Then he looked on high. . . .

The earth and the sky know nothing of our sorrows.

ROYAL ROMANCES

GEORGE IV. AND GRACE DALRYMPLE

By Barbara Bayne

GRACE DALRYMPLE lived in that period of world's history when life was a romance—or a travesty.

She was born in Scotland in 1760, the daughter of Hugh Dalrymple, Attorney-General to the Grenadas. In any assemblage of women her beauty and charm of manner outclassed them all. From her fluffy head to her dainty toes, Grace was a thoroughbred.

At her father's London house, when only fifteen, she met Sir John Elliot, who, charmed with her loveliness, immediately made her an offer of marriage. Grace thought only of the advantage of being "Lady" Elliot and accepted. But more than a generation lay between them, and Sir John's lagging footsteps could not keep pace with her dancing feet.

As Lady Elliot, with entree to fashionable society, she found many admirers. It was inevitable that she would become entangled in an intrigue. Sir John refused to take it like a gentleman. He aired his grievances, he divorced Grace and he made the co-respondent pay 12,000 pounds for the indiscretion.

Her scandalized family whisked her out of England and into a French convent; but a little later she reappeared as the mistress of Lord and Lady Chalmondeley. The Prince of Wales, who had already fallen in love with her picture, from their first meeting was enthralled by her beauty. And Grace was fascinated by the glamour that surrounds a Crown Prince.

A marriage was not possible, but Grace had a high place in court society. A daughter born of the union, christened under the name of Georgiana Seymour, in after years became Lady Charles Bentick.

The Duke of Orleans, handsome, distinguished, who spent much time in England, attracted Grace and she took up her residence in Paris in 1786. The Prince of Wales continued her pensions, but commanded her to leave little Georgiana in England.

Grace, as "Miss Elliot," maintained a brilliant salon in Paris until the revolutionary era. Though she kept aloof from political intrigues, her friendship with the Duke involved her, and eventually landed her in the same prison in which Josephine de Beauharnais was confined. Both were ordered for execution on the very day that France was delivered from the tyrant Robespierre.

Saved by a turn of fortune's wheel. Instead of mounting the scaffold, Josephine mounted the throne. The terrible experience through which Grace had passed had developed the beauty of her soul to match her lovely face. Horrified at the crime of the Duke (now called Phillipe-Egalite) of having voted for the death of the King, his cousin, she shrank from him and refused his offer of "safe conduct" out of mob-ruled Paris.

The Prince of Wales hearing of her arrival in England begged to see her. One glance into the lovely face and the embers of the old love flamed into life again.

But the rigorous prison system had broken her health and, obliged to return to France, the slackened life of this beautiful woman terminated at Ville d'Avray in 1823.

FURNITURE IN HOME

By Marian Moore

JUST because a hall must be kept formal and stiff is no reason there can't be a bit of color, reasoned the woman who likes any color, just so it is bright! Thus a vermilion lacquered casket, and a greenish-blue Chinese vase, were placed side by side in the tiny hallway of her apartment home.

The cream walls and ivory woodwork of the hall formed a pleasing background for the brilliant bits of color, and the mahogany and brass dinner gong was better than a picture for the wall panel. After the vase was filled with brown cat-tails and rushes, to match the dark mahogany of the table, the bright colors were "pulled together" by a big round fluffy cushion of greenish-blue taffeta, exactly matching the vase, trimmed with a wreath of vermilion velvet flowers.

The woman who loves her colors strong looked over her work and pronounced it good, while the harmony of the arrangement was enthusiastically admitted by those with more temperate tastes.

FOXY GRANDPA STORY

HOW BUNNY HELPED BOBBY WIN A PRIZE

DID Bunny ever see a circus?

He certainly did. In fact, he was the sensation of the circus the day I took him.

No, I didn't have to buy a ticket for Bunny. He just went as usual in my pocket.

When we got seated I took him out on my lap. How he did enjoy it.

The elephant had performed. And the trained seals had done their stunt. Dozens of acrobats had performed all kinds of thrilling stunts. And the clowns had kept everybody in roars of laughter for hours.

Then the ringmaster came to the middle of the tent, raised his whip and signaled the band to stop playing.

The whole place was quiet for a moment. Then he announced in a clear voice:

"Ladies and gentlemen! Here you see Maud—the famous kicking mule. You have seen how difficult it is to ride her. Will any of the audience volunteer to ride this fractious animal? A prize of fifty dollars will be awarded to the person who succeeds in mounting Maud and remaining on her back one minute. Anyone ready to try, ladies and gentlemen?"

Several men walked down boldly into the ring and tried. Off they flopped as if they had been thrown from a fast-flying merry-go-round.

Bobby said:

"Foxy Grandpa, you try it. You were a great horseman out West and around the ring, waving his hat to the cheering crowd. And there was Bunny sitting beside the ring laughing fit to kill.

What do you think that little rascal had done?

While I was rolling around in the sawdust Bunny had run up to Maud and had whispered in her ear, saying that Bobby was his friend and asked Maud to let him ride her.

Maud had wagged her ears yes, and up on her back jumped Bobby and had no trouble at all.

The people went crazy when the ringmaster gave Bobby the fifty dollars. Bobby took Bunny by the paw and they made a deep bow to the audience before they left the ring.

They certainly were the hit of the day!

(How a puzzling question was decided will be told in Monday's Story.)

Copyright, 1923, International Feature Service, Inc.

I thought it would be fun. So I stepped into the ring amidst great cheers.

I threw off my coat and grabbed Maud's bridle. Up I got. I thought I had her under controh. I was even planning what we were going to do with the fifty dollars when—

Biff! Bang! Wow!

Off I went right on my head. What a howl went up.

I was dizzy, I can tell you. When I had collected myself and was putting on my coat imagine my surprise at looking up and seeing Bobby as big as life riding around

FASHIONS IN CHIC HATS

By Rita Stuyvesant

WHAT woman thinks of Spring without also thinking of lovely new hats? And this season they are varied and colorful.

The new Lanvin green hats are interestingly worn with dark suits, or with the smart sport suit. Hats of straw, gros de Londre, and satin crepe are made up in this color and some are of the limp floppy type, while others favor the small turn-off the face models. Flowers, and feather fancies run rivalry for trimmings, and some depend entirely on wool stitchery for decoration.

Black and white combinations are well liked. A large hat of white felt, with soft crown and brim that turns down is broader in front than in back. It is embroidered in black angora wool, and has an edging of black stitch.

Veils that conceal yet reveal the eyes are featured extensively. A poke effect in black taffeta is trimmed with three-inch lace that drops off the brim and is allowed to fall in two long streamers at either side of the ears.

A stunning hat for early Spring is of beige colored straw and combines this with lace of the same shade. The hat is a small poke effect, and the lace is arranged like a veil, falling only to the tip of the nose. Around the crown, small flowers in pastel colorings nestle in gay profusion.

The new Hindu turbans worn with plain frocks are interesting; made from the printed silks and knitted fabrics, they are wound in graceful lines about the head. Long earrings of Oriental design are usually worn with these hats.

THE WEATHER SHIP

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

Eminent Astronomer and Authority on Subjects of Scientific Interest.

IT is a splendid idea that sends the training ship Jacques Cartier, with French and American meteorologists and forecasters, across the Atlantic between New Orleans and Antwerp, to act as a "floating weather bureau" during the twenty days required for the trip. The scheme is to send out forecasts from the ship twice every day, based upon information derived by wireless not only from other ships afloat at the same time on various parts of the ocean, but from Washington and Paris, so that the floating observers have before them, for making their forecasts, a simultaneous picture of the state of the atmosphere covering practically half of the northern hemisphere.

This is the beginning of a system that, if possible, should have been established long ago. It is absolutely necessary to make weather forecasting a real success.

The atmosphere is a connected, unbroken, gaseous shell, enveloping the entire globe of the earth. It is not divided like the sea into widely separated parts, only connected in certain places by straits and more or less restricted portions, but you could sail in the upper levels of the air all around the earth, in any direction, without encountering any obstacle. You would only have to go about five miles high to ride right over the highest peak in the world. But there are cirrus clouds that may be ten miles high.

Storms reach many miles higher than the mountains. They bore their way down like aerial maelstroms from the upper regions, and their disturbances are transmitted through vast regions of the atmospheric shell, passing from sea over land, or from land over sea, without any interruption, and only with modifications caused by the nature and temperature of the surface below them.

Sometimes our coast cities and ports are surprised by a tempest that springs unannounced from the sea, and sometimes a land storm unexpectedly assails vessels coasting along the shores of a continent. The growth of navigation has greatly aided Government forecasters to correlate continental and oceanic weather, but the information gathered from ships' logs, and even that received lately furnished by radio, is still too fragmentary and uncertain to give trustworthy data for reliable predictions of this kind.

What is needed—and when science comes into her own financially it will be had—is a whole fleet, or several fleets, of "weather ships" constantly at sea, and devoted solely to the business of keeping track of the condition and the vagaries or the atmosphere over the oceans, so that the meteorology of the land and the meteorology of the sea may be coordinated into one scientific whole.

The Jacques Cartier's trip will become famous if, scientific history if the effort that it represents is followed up and it is kept steadily employed on its mission. One such ship alone can furnish invaluable information by crossing and recrossing the Atlantic and radiating its information and its warnings broadcast to all things afloat between America and Europe. But then should be, at the very least two, starting alternately from the opposite shores of the Atlantic.

ANECDOTES OF THE FAMOUS

SOME amusing instances are related as to the musical enthusiasm of Berlioz. A medical student shared his room, and managed that he should live cheaply on the proceeds of some musical lessons which he had succeeded in obtaining. Once a week the two friends afforded themselves a visit to the opera.

Berlioz, who was a fanatic where music was concerned, often caused strange disturbances at the theatre. He knew all the scores by heart, and could not endure that any alterations should be made in the intentions of the original composer. "It's a piece of impertinence to leave out the cymbals there!" he cried one day, rising in the pit and pointing to the orchestra. The audience was as well may be imagined, considerably astonished at this evidence of interest in art. What was their surprise when a little later they saw Berlioz standing on his seat, gesticulating with rage, and shouting at the top of his voice, "Down with those cymbals! There never was and never shall be cymbals in that passage!"

The offending instruments had this time made themselves heard in a piece where the composer had not introduced them. The musician was seized by the "sergens de ville" and promtly expelled.

A few days after, however, he had his revenge. "What does that mean?" he cried at a point in the performance which touched his susceptibility. "You have left out something! There is a solo there! Look at the score!" "Hear, hear! The solo! Give us the solo!" exclaimed the pit with one voice. The orchestra, highly offended, would do no such thing. Eighty of the audience, led by Berlioz, stormed their position in great excitement. The musicians fled, the curtain fell, and there was havoc among the instruments.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

WHEN the tides of life are flooding, shrubs an' flowers and trees are budding, when the birds their sweetest carols blithely sing, Winter's dismal days are over, children frolic in the clover—oh, it's fine just to be living in the Spring! Then the fields are starred with flowers whence, through all the sunny hours, Nature sends her call to mortals: "Come and play! Do not labor like a martyr, learn the paths of busy barter, learn to laugh and be as merry as the day!" In the Spring the earth rejoices and myriad singing voices tell the story of her rapture and delight, from the wind's song as it passes, creeping low amid the grasses, to the lark's, whose notes are falling from the height.

Spring's a prodigal to squander priceless treasures here and yonder, and her gold is brightly gleaming in the vale, buttercups, you say, and daisies? Ah, but in those yellow mazes lies a glow to make a monarch's jewels pale! Spring's a child who lures with laughter, crying: "Brothers follow after! See the wonder of my footsteps on the slope, see the green upon the hillsides, on the willows by the rillsides, tender green, the hue of budding youth and hope!" There's a message strangely thrilling in the love-songs birds are trilling; southern winds bear fragrant censers that they swing through the willow branches swinging by the brook where I am fishing—oh, it's great just to be living in the Spring!

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

W. C. Durant, back to New York, after a few weeks' pleasure and business tour through the United States, has plunged himself into his multitudinous and colossal activities connected with the various large automobile companies he is bringing into being and his gigantic stock distributing scheme. Mr. Durant tells me that he expects to furnish the first batch of answers to my fifteen questions within the next few days. Judging from the communications I have received, the inside facts concerning Mr. Durant's various projects are awaited with intense interest all over the country.

Here is the kind of incident I am constantly experiencing. I went to a station in Jersey City to buy a commutation ticket and had, of course, to give my name. The ticket seller immediately looked up, asked if I was the man who had been writing about Durant, and then remarked: "I have five shares of the stock. So has my friend in the office here. We are very anxious to read what Mr. Durant has to say!"

Colonel William Boyce Thompson, the first American visitor conducted to the tomb of Tut-Ankh-Amen by the Earl of Carnarvon, and who announced on his return to America this week that he is to receive seeds from ancient Egyptian tombs, is a noted authority on horticulture. Here is an extract from a character sketch of this picturesque, dynamic American mining and business giant I wrote some little time ago:

"So keen is Colonel Thompson upon exhaustive research, experimentation, and analysis that he is contemplating the establishment on his place at Yonkers-on-the-Hudson of a laboratory for horticultural research. He is hopeful that new knowledge of why things grow may be evolved and prove of incalculable value to mankind. He and his scientific associates, through experimentation, achieve results in the plant world similar to what the Rockefeller Institute is doing in the medical world. Colonel Thompson is a noted horticulturist. He usually carries off the highest honors at flower shows. He knows flowers as thoroughly as he knows copper ore.

"His collection of quartz, precious stones, semi-precious stones and other products of the interior of the earth, which he began collecting when a boy, is but a unit in the world gathered together by any private citizen. He thinks nothing of journeying hundreds of miles to hunt up some variety of stone or metal for his priceless collection, which, needless to say, is guarded night and day. All these activities are inspired, not by vanity or mere pride of possession, but by a deep-rooted urge to contribute something of value to his fellow men.

"How many rich men, I wonder, are motivated by the rule Colonel Thompson long ago laid down for his own guidance, namely, that for every dollar spent on himself and his family not less than $3 must be used for philanthropic, scientific or public purposes?"

Stuyvesant Fish, who met his Waterloo when he battled with Harriman for domination of the Illinois Central Railroad, and who died this week, was in many respects like the late J. P. Morgan. Mr. Fish had a wonderful grasp of banking and finance, both domestic and foreign. He was as big physically as Morgan, and for a time he was as influential. Also, like Morgan, he was very warmly liked by his intimates.

Although his wife for years was the recognized leader of New York's Four Hundred, Mr. Fish preferred reading and studying to society activities. He was extremely well read. He was, too, systematic, and knew where to lay his hands on all kinds of information.

The bitterness between him and Harriman, Wall Street always understood, had its inception not in any business dealings but in society jealousies. It was said that Mrs. Fish, a stickler for guarding the portals to the Four Hundred, refused to "take up" Mrs. Harriman when Harriman began to make sensational headway in the railroad and financial world. Mrs. Harriman did not succeed in overthrowing Mrs. Fish, but Harriman did succeed in ousting Fish from his place in the railroad and financial world.

"Stuy" Fish was much less superficial than are many of our present day financial notables.

WEEK-END GRAINS ARE SOLD LOWER

Grains sold a bit off in the week-end session of the Chicago pit. At Liverpool wheat closed ¼ lower. Chicago prices were: Wheat—May, 1.24⅜ to 1.25; July, 1.23 to 1.23⅛; September, 1.21 to 1.21¼. Corn—May, 89¼; July, 81⅜ to 81 ⅝; September, 82 to 82¼. Oats—May, 45⅝ to 46; July, 46⅛ to 46⅜; September, 45⅜. Rye—May, 84⅝; July, 81⅜.

Railroads Are Leaders, Setting New Highs, in Strong New York Market

TRADING QUIET FOR WEEK-END ON BIG BOARD

Railroads were leaders in the week-end New York stock market, which was strong. Canadian Pacific and Pittsburgh & West Virginia set new 1923 highs, both up more than a point.

Other gains of a point or more in the rails were made by St. Paul preferred, Rock Island, Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake & Ohio, Union Pacific and Wabash preferred.

Oils were fairly active, but with minor changes. Steels were lively. Crucible rising more than a point. Du Pont added 2 at 123½, then receded on profit-taking.

Beechnut Packing added 1¼ at 71¼. Reynolds Steel Spring was up more than a point.

Trading in general showed the week-end quietness which has now been in order for three weeks.

Magneto sales of American Bosch Magneto for the first quarter of the year were at the annual rate of $5,000,000. Including starting-lighting systems gross for the period was at the annual rate of nearly $10,500,000.

The Springfield Kelly factory is now operating between 50 per cent. and 60 per cent. capacity. Any substantial acceleration of the rate of release orders from automobile makers could easily increase operating ratio materially during the second quarter.

Net profits for the first quarter will run something over $100,000 or better than $1 a share after charges for the 26,000 common share capitalization. The second quarter should be slightly better, possibly $125,000. Estimates for the full year's balance are between $5 and $6 a share.

SHOE AND LEATHER FAILURES FALL OFF

Failures, embarrassments, etc., in the shoe, leather, and kindred lines in the United States and Canada for the past week, as compiled by The Shoe & Leather Mercantile Agency, numbered 41, against 55 for the preceding week and 84 for the corresponding period of 1922.

FOOD PRICES OF WEEK ARE HIGHER

Bradstreet's food index number based on the wholesale prices per pound for April 7 was $3.38, as against $3.28 for the week ending April 12, 1922.

PRICES ARE STEADY IN COTTON FUTURES

Week-end prices were steady in cotton futures. Quotations were: May, 29.10; July, 28.67; October, 25.50; December, 25.60, and January, 24.69.

Wall St. Gossip

Photograph That Describes Character

Good Men Appreciate Those That Have Cared for Them

Copyright, 1923, Star Company

A GOOD-HEARTED MAN AND HIS GOOD FRIEND

With him in the photograph is Miss Mary McCadden, ninety years old. She was Gifford Pinchot's nurse when he was eleven weeks old, has lived in his house ever since, and firmly believes now that she is still caring for him while he is Governor, although he is caring for her.

This photograph is printed to remind some men who need the reminder of this. Those that show gratitude for help in their youth—first of all, gratitude to mothers; second, gratitude to other women who have taken care of them—are apt to do well later on in life.

Why Secret Organization?

A Republic Does Not Need Them

Copyright, 1923, Star Company

A New York judge declares that the Anti-Saloon League is a political organization and must file with the Secretary of State a list of its members, contributors, receipts and expenditures.

It is alleged by the heartless "wets" that if it were possible to identify them a choice collection of bootleggers would be found among the contributors. If that be true, of course, the Anti-Saloon League doesn't know it.

If the Anti-Saloon League is a political organization, why isn't the same thing true of a half dozen or more other secret organizations that collect and spend money and guarantee special favors and protection, including political jobs, to those in their membership?

All secret organizations should be changed to public organizations in a republic.

Billboard Vandalism

Lynn Chamber of Commerce Acts Against Attempt of Boston & Maine Railroad to Permit Its Property to Be Placarded

The Lynn Chamber of Commerce has issued "A Call to Arms" against the attempt of the Boston & Maine Railroad to permit the use of the bridges and overhead structures, and every other place controlled by the railroad susceptible of such use, to be placarded with advertisements.

The Boston & Maine Railroad is desperately seeking new sources of revenue. We do not blame its management for being somewhat forgetful of the larger public interests in its eager search for a larger income to make up the losses incurred by its old Wall Street management. But the other public interests must be on their guard lest this zeal should express itself in acts which are not in effect anti-public.

The struggle which we make during the active periods of our existence is, first, to obtain the means of sustaining life and, then, to obtain the things which make bare existence more pleasant. One of the senses through which pleasure is given is the eye. As we become more civilized, better educated, more cultured and refined, we become more sensitive to things that please the eye.

A gentleman of our acquaintance decided that he would adorn his house with some nice oil paintings. He consulted a well-known art critic connected with one of our big colleges. This gentleman was a friend of his. Our friend asked his friend to accompany him to an auction sale and aid him to select the pictures. Whereupon his friend, the artist, told him that he did not want to go, for the pictures that would appeal to him would not appeal to our mutual friend; that the way to buy pictures was to buy the pictures which you like, for pictures are meant to please those who see them most and not others; hang them up, and when you get tired of them and find something better give them away or demote them to some less important room and get something that you like better. In that way, your taste will develop.

So it is with the civilized community. Our tastes develop as our education increases and our refinement grows.

One of the things that we are outgrowing is the barbarous billboard advertising. Some day we will either abolish it altogether or have an art commission pass on it. Until such a day comes our railroad structures, our bridges and fences and station walls and other things which have been built for the at least purpose not to offend the eye should not be desecrated by any kind of an advertisement which a man is willing to pay for.

Thus we want more and more that the things which strike our eye in the places where we live shall be pleasing and not offensive.

We hope that other business organizations will join with the Lynn Chamber of Commerce to guard our public structures from this kind of vandalism.

BIG GIFT FOR BOOKS BY GARY

CHICAGO, April 14.—Elbert H. Gary, of New York, an alumnus of Northwestern University Law School, of the class of '67, has given the school $100,000, the income of which is to be devoted to the purchase and repair of law books.

The Gary Law Library, now in the university's downtown building, was established in 1903 with funds provided by Gary. The university is endeavoring to acquire a complete collection of the laws and jurisprudence of all the countries of continental Europe.

Woman's Best

Editor Boston American:

Your interrogatory editorial on "When Is a Woman at Her Best?" is a very interesting subject, and would like to express my views, hoping others will accept your challenge and speak their minds also.

In my opinion, woman is at her best only when she is doing her best, eliminating the age question entirely, for when she reaches the age of maturity it is what she does and not how old she is that counts.

"Tis very true that a great part of a woman's time is taken up worrying over "Am I getting old?" when she should be wondering, "Am I doing all the good I can before my age of usefulness has passed?" or "How long can I be useful?" not, "How long can I look thirty-five?" Quoting Mr. Brisbane in an article a short time ago where he said, "We keep on making our plans as though we were going to live forever." Now, the fact remains that we are not, so why not forget our age and crowd all the good we can into the short space of time alloted to us, remembering that the future generation will not comment on how young mother was at forty, but what a wonderful mother she was.

THE HELPING HAND

Do Not Inclose Stamps. Letters Will Not Be Answered Personally. No Attention Paid to Telephone Calls. No Names Are Published.

Widow of Seventy

Editor Helping Hand:

I read in tonight's paper about the widow of seventy (Mrs. S. of Tremont street). I am enclosing this check for her. I am making it out to the Boston American, as it would take so long to get her name. I hope it will not cause you any inconvenience.

A. C. G.

ED. NOTE—Many thanks. We have sent the five dollars along, and I know it will go a long way toward relieving her distress.

Coat for Little Mary

Editor Helping Hand:

Please send me E. C.'s address, as I have a coat that little Mary could play in and also a green Summer one that would have to be made shorter. If she can sew I will send her a dress for Mary. If you will send me J. P. H.'s address I will send her two shirts and two bands, year-old size, and a cape for a five-year-old. Has she any boys, as I have a four-year-old coat for someone? I also have an old cook stove that anyone can have by coming after it. How old are the children in Alice's family?

MRS. H. R. M.

ED. NOTE—Thank you. You will be put in touch with all the people you mention, including Alice, who neglected to give the ages, but who lives in the same town that you do. Your offer of a cook stove will be held.

Offers Clothing

Editor Helping Hand:

Will you please send me the address of some mother who needs clothing for a child from three to five years old, house dresses size 38 and other things that a mother can make over?

MRS. G. A. T.

ED. NOTE—Thank you. You will be put in touch with Mrs. E. G., who is greatly in need of clothes for herself and her children.

Wants Clothes for Sisters

Editor Helping Hand:

Could you be so kind as to send me some clothes that could be made over so as to fit my little sisters, and I am sure God will bless you and the giver. I am thirteen years old. Both my father and mother are dead. My aunty takes care of us with a large family of her own and cannot afford to get much for us. I will watch your answer.

DOROTHY H.

ED. NOTE—Afraid sister will have to wait until you let us know her age, too.

Something for Needy Girl

Editor Helping Hand:

Wish you would put me in touch with some needy girl who wishes a doll and a couple of linen dresses, ages six to eight years.

B. G.

ED. NOTE—You will be put in touch with Mrs. M. C., who would deeply appreciate the dresses and doll for her six-year-old girl. Thank you.

Set of Instruments

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a fine set of mechanical drawing instruments, eleven pieces, all in leather case, that I am desirous of placing in the hands of some young fellow that might need the same. I also have a six-volume set of "Business Law" that would be a great assistance to a student thereof. Please allow me to congratulate you on your noble and extremely fine department.

H. E. F.

ED. NOTE—Thank you. I think these will prove very valuable to some ambitious young men, and the offer will be held for replies.

Wants Mother With Baby

Editor Helping Hand:

Please send me the address of someone with boys two to three years old and girl one to four, and I will send some things to them. Also can you find anyone looking for work—I would like to get a mother with baby to come for the Summer and help me with three children not far from New Bedford.

D. R.

ED. NOTE—Thank you. You will be put in touch with Mrs. E. G., who would greatly appreciate the clothes you mention. Your other offer will be held, as I know of none now.

Chance to Work

Editor Helping Hand:

I have supplied "C. L's" husband and am making some baby clothes for her. I have two men's suits in good condition and some other clothes for a man. Wonder if some young man out of work would be willing to do a little light work at my home in return for these.

MRS. C. E. S.

ED. NOTE—You will be put in touch with W. J. W., who asked for an opportunity to do a little work as you mention. Thank you kindly for your aid to C. L. and her husband.

Young Mother's Plea

Editor Helping Hand:

I am a young mother of twenty-five. My husband has been sick for some time. I haven't any good clothes to wear, and if some kind reader has anything to spare I would be very grateful. Anything that could be made over would be appreciated. Is there anyone also who would be willing to give clothes to my poor little sister, who is seventeen years old, whose father is dead, and whose mother works very hard?

MRS. M. V.

For Braided Rugs

Editor Helping Hand:

I am a shut-in. I wonder if any one has some old percale house dresses or gingham that I might use for wash braided rugs? I would be very pleased to have them.

MRS. E. B. A.

For Doll's Clothes

Editor Helping Hand:

Elspeth has asked for pieces to make doll clothes. If you will please send me her address I will see that she gets some. Have also two union suits that will fit a boy between ten and twelve, also two overcoats that some large man could possibly wear.

MRS. A. O.

ED. NOTE—You have helped so often that we look for your handwriting on an envelope at least once a week. Many thanks for all you have done. Elspeth, and Mrs. W. B., who has a boy ten, and a husband who needs the overcoats will be put in touch with you.

Things for Baby

Editor Helping Hand:

I have some things I could send for Mrs. A. P. S.'s children. I also have a Winter coat and man's lightweight overcoat, size 36, and a few things for a very young baby.

MRS. E. A. A.

ED. NOTE—Thank you. You will be put in touch with Mrs. A. P. S., with Mrs. F. B., and E. F. McK., who need coats, and with Mrs. J. W. M., who needs baby clothes.

THEY NEVER THOUGHT THAT FATE WOULD SO BETRAY THEM

By Herbert Kaufman

Provide for a few essential decencies; toothbrushes, soaps and toilet needs. Allow for inevitable medical and dental services. Omit books and newspapers. Exclude amusements. Eliminate all indulgences and calculate how far you would get on ten dollars a week.

Thirty thousand working women in these United States—not domestic servants—are somehow eking out on that amount—and less.

How'd you like your wife to tackle the problem—or your daughter—or your sister? No telling but what they may. This world is filled with well-bred, fragile women growing old at the rate of twenty-four months a year—prisoners of mischances, victims of overconfidence. Men will bungle in business. Others do let their insurance policies lapse.

The town's filled with shabby, half-fed seamstresses, scrub-women and dawn-waking drudges—some with families to support—who never dreamed that fate could so betray them.

The abolition of the minimum wage law promises that we shall soon have many times thirty thousand of such folk in the land. Greed will see to that.

A Stain on the Pride of Democracy

Callous employers, taking prompt advantage of the Supreme Court's decision, will crowd hospitals with victims of emaciation, recruit to sad painted armies of midnight and increase cemetery acreage. Malnutrition is a crepe-hanger. The ill-clad and mislhod are the first victims of pneumonia and flu.

Nations pay too much if they pay too little for labor. When services must be sold on the auction block of desperation neither morality nor civilization profits.

The conservation of vitality is a community investment—a cold-blooded transaction. Intelligent industries learn that from the balance sheet. They do not drive overhard bargains. It's a losing game all around. Replacement costs too much.

Lincoln Speaks From the Tomb

Witnesses at the trial of Walter Higginbotham, boss of a convict lumber camp, testify that he beat Martin Tabert to death with a seven-and-a-half-pound lash. One observer counted a hundred strokes. Higginbotham is indicted for murder and released on ten thousand dollars bail. That needs explaining.

So does the delivery of able-bodied men at twenty dollars a head to timber companies by Sheriff Jones of Leod. So does corporation traffic in human flesh.

Florida stains national honor when she thus sheds the blood of American citizens. Her courts nullify the emancipation proclamation by betraying men to slavery and the whip.

Lincoln speaks from the tomb and says that no further constitutional amendments are needed to halt peonage.

Several Crazy Notions

Jackson Barnett, wealthiest Indian in the United States, is ruled incompetent by Oklahoma authorities and placed in charge of a guardian, who brings suit against the Interior Department to restrain Secretary Work from paying out funds from the estate.

The record of our treatment of red men would not be complete if something like this hadn't happened. Any Indian who thinks that he can remain unmolested with several million dollars is crazy.

The Michigan Agricultural College and the University of Maine will hold a twenty-four-hour debate on some subject to be decided at a day's notice.

Those who know what they're talking about don't need that long to demonstrate it. Information deals in brevities. Competence is succinct. The late Charles A. Dana once apologized for a long letter, explaining that he hadn't time to compose a shorter one.

If these students prepare themselves they can demonstrate their respective efficiencies in two hours. Performances of this sort tend to vindicate the Carnegie Foundation's opinion of higher education.

Sergeant Donaldson Got a Medal, Too

A pigeon saved a hundred lives at Verdun and must wear a medal. The bird won't understand why it should be penalized for heroic service. If its thoughts were read, the poor caged creature would ask liberty for its reward. A parable: Most of us misspend our gratitude by neglecting to consider its most acceptable form.

Sergeant Michael Donaldson got a medal, too. If Congress had a true sense of proportion the incapacitated victim of wounds and shell-shock wouldn't be walking the streets, wondering how he'll manage to live out the rest of a demoralized life.

Good Fairy News for 6,000 Cripples

All aboard for China. General Mitchell promises sixty-five-hour New York-Pekin expresses within the next few years. Fares, twelve hundred dollars, including stops at Winnipeg and Nome.

Another generation considered Collis Huntington's transcontinental railroad a less feasible project. Keep your mind in wings—these are flying times.

New Jersey Elks undertake the cure and treatment of the State's crippled and subsequently their vocational education. Mark that down as an offset to ten-dollar wages and peonage camps.

Thomas W. Lawson, forced to dispose of his property for the benefit of creditors, offers to sell the "best car in the world" for five thousand $1 cigars.

A friend advises him that a pipe will smoke sweeter if he send the $5,000 to New Jersey.

Not All in the Same Business

Senator Smoot does not think that taxes should be touched. He finds them working satisfactorily and believes that business will be disturbed by any immediate revision.

Senator Smoot is more or less interested in beet sugar. Most of the 110,000,000 people in this country are not. They simply pay the prices that make Senator Smoot so satisfied with present taxes.
